Guatemalan 'Major Battle' Claimed Near

Both Sides In Latin Dispute Still Issuing Conflicting Reports

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—The Guatemalan rebel command said last night its forces were massed for a full-scale attack on Chiquimula and that "bloody" fighting already raged there. But government military leaders, boasting advances on "all fronts," vowed to bring the invasion to a speedy end.

Both sides in the so-called war continued to issue conflicting military claims at frequent intervals.

A communique from the invasion headquarters of Guatemalan exile leader Col. Carlos Castillo Armas said a major battle was shaping up at Chiquimula, less than 70 miles northeast of the capital.

The announcement said that as the rebels pressed in to attack, the government hastily reinforced the Chiquimula garrison with artillery, mortars and machineguns after the garrison commander deserted to the rebels.

Castillo Armas claimed his rebel forces now hold 16 Guatemalan towns, seized since the invaders moved in from the Honduran border last Friday in a bid to unseat President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's Communist-supported regime.

ON THE DIPLOMATIC front, the strained relations between Guatemala and neighboring Honduras neared the breaking point.

Informed sources said the Honduran government was about to demand the expulsion of Guatemalan Ambassador Amadeo Chinchilla on grounds he sparked Wednesday's leftist student demonstration in Tegucigalpa. Seven persons were wounded when police opened fire.

Tension reached the crucial stage when Guatemala accused Honduras (Continued on Page Two)

City Man Reports Mysterious Light

A mysterious, brilliant light in the sky has been seen twice in the past week by a W. Main St. businessman. Lewis Cook said he saw the light with the aid of binoculars last Sunday at about 10 p. m., and again Wednesday at about 8:30 p. m. without field glasses.

"It was traveling extremely fast," said Cook referring to Wednesday night's incident. "It was going in a general southwest direction at a terrific rate of speed."

Cook gave a more detailed description of the Sunday night inci-

Stock Mart Best Since 1929 Level

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market climbed still higher today with a rise that probed into new high ground again.

It was up yesterday at the best levels since October, 1929, and today that strength continued.

Prices were up between 1 and 2 points in some instances with a few strong stocks up even more.

A number of areas in the list failed to join in the rise, but losses usually were quite small. The pace of trading was good with the rate around the two million mark. Yesterday's total was 2,260,000.

Death Penalty Faces Slayer, 36

CINCINNATI (AP)—William Garner, 36, convicted here yesterday on a charge of first-degree murder without a recommendation for mercy, will be sentenced June 30 by Criminal Court Judge Carson Hoy. The death penalty is mandatory. Garner was convicted of killing Mrs. Laura Walker, 30, in a tavern last March 6.

Chiefs Of Orient Meet For Parley

India's Nehru, China's Chou Could Change History In Asia

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Communist premier of 500 million Chinese and the prime minister of Democratic India's 350 millions opened a week-end of talks here today which could change Asian history.

The Indian Communist party politburo ordered "peace" demonstrations throughout Chou's three-day visit, but a Red-organized cheering section could arouse only feeble enthusiasm from the airport crowd of about 2,500 persons.

The meeting of Asia's two powerful government chiefs came as a climax to months of East-West tension in which India, trying to play a neutral role, appeared drawn closer and closer to her powerful Communist neighbor.

CHOU'S DRAMATIC flight from the Geneva conference to meet Nehru appeared a direct challenge to draw world attention from the Washington conference this week-end of Prime Minister Churchill and President Eisenhower.

Advance announcements said Korea and Indochina would be the main topics discussed here.

Observers predicted Chou would wage a strong campaign to pull Nehru further from neutrality into the "Asia for Asians" circle he called for at Geneva.

dent. He said he noticed a light in the sky which he thought was too bright to be man-made or a star. He obtained a pair of binoculars for himself and one for his 16-year-old daughter Janet.

"The light must have remained in sight about two minutes," Cook explained. "It looked like a plate standing on edge and tilted at a 45-degree angle away from us."

"IT LOOKED like it had red lights on the bottom side. Every time it moved from its hovering position it changed color. All of a sudden, a number of colors seemed to flash on all at once and in three or four seconds it took off and disappeared."

Describing the colors as similar to those of the rainbow, Cook said the light seemed to dart like a humming bird. Each time, he said, it would come back to a central position then dart again.

Cook said that Sunday night he viewed the incident from his home two miles east of Circleville on Route 22. On Wednesday, Cook said he was on the Ringgold-Southern Rd. near Stoutsville Rd., about two miles northeast of the city.

Farmer, 2 Sons Battle Utility

NEW PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A farmer and two of his sons were arrested yesterday for seeking to bar a construction crew from their property near Dover.

Emerson Dessecker, 70, and the sons, Wayne, 35, and Mario, 28, were charged with defying a common pleas court injunction restraining them. On Wednesday they reportedly stopped Ohio Edison Co. contractors from crossing a 33-foot strip of their farm land, and the power company said the delay was costing it $2,000 a day. The construction crew was trying to replace wooden utility poles with steel ones.

First Hurricane Of Season Roars

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Alice, the first hurricane of the season, sprung up suddenly in the Gulf of Mexico and scooted over to Brownsville and the lonely Mexican Coast today.

It wasn't a big blow as hurricanes go. Winds at the center were reported 80 miles an hour, just five miles above hurricane strength.

The center was aimed at a waste-land stretch of Mexican Coast 50 or 60 miles south of Brownsville, Texas' southernmost city.

passing day," said Chou on arrival at the airport. "May the unity of the peoples of all Asian countries become daily closer."

There was speculation the talks would get around to the question of a non-aggression pact between the two nations, though Indian sources discounted the possibility of direct action on this.

Indian officials said Nehru as host would be in a position to direct the trend of the conversations. But the advance handling of the visit at all levels indicated it would be the Chinese leader who would be carrying the ball in the talks.

"This time," said one qualified observer, "Nehru will likely do more listening than talking."

Farmers Here Urged To Note OSU Warning

Larry Best, Pickaway County Farm Agent, called the attention of district farmers Friday to a warning issued by a plant specialist at Ohio State University.

The specialist, B. F. Janson, extension plant pathologist at OSU, said wheat, barley and sycamore trees are suffering disease attacks. And Best said the warning "hits Pickaway County square between the eyes."

Best urged that special attention be given the bulletin issued by Janson earlier this week. Janson said gray mold on leaves and leaf sheaths of wheat and barley is powdery mildew. Some leaves turn yellow, then brown and die.

"Many farmers will harvest less wheat than they expected because of powdery mildew," the plant disease specialist said. There is no practical control of powdery mildew.

THERE ARE controls for another disease—wheat and barley scab—but such controls are too late now. Seed treatment, crop rotation and complete burial of corn stalks help control the scab.

Janson warned farmers that scabby wheat or barley will harm hogs, dogs and man. Cattle, sheep and poultry may eat such diseased grain without ill effects.

When grain heads are green, those infected by scab will have a bleached, straw color.

Wheat leaf rust, another disease, consists of small, round, yellow-orange lesions. Resistant varieties are the chief means of control.

Anthraxnose is a disease that is killing leaves on sycamore trees. Early spring spraying with Bordeaux 8-8-100 aids control.

Visitor To Jail Locked Up, Too

HAMILTON (AP)—Ruby Brown, 27, said she just wanted to inquire about a friend who had been arrested when she showed up in police headquarters last night.

But acting desk sergeant Clark Castator accused her of being drunk and then he found out she had been the driver of an automobile that ran a red light and almost hit a deputy sheriff's patrol car a few minutes earlier. When told she was under arrest, she grabbed a chair and started swinging it. She was charged with driving while drunk, reckless driving, resisting arrest and malicious destruction of property.

Churchill Arrives In U. S. Capital For Momentous Parley With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill arrived today for momentous talks with President Eisenhower to make sure there are "no misunderstandings" in the British-American family.

He put it this way: "I've come with Anthony Eden to talk over a few family matters and try to make sure that there are no misunderstandings."

Churchill, in gray suit and homburg and carrying a gold-headed cane, stepped down from the big American-built British Overseas Airways plane with Foreign Minister Eden at his side.

For a 79-year-old veteran of several wars and many historic diplomatic conferences, Churchill moved with remarkable sprightliness. As the crowd gathered at the airport cheered, Churchill lifted his

All District Donors, Volunteers Asked To Assist On Blood Call

Top leaders and section chiefs of the Pickaway County Red Cross blood program called upon all prospective donors Friday to "check in and see if your help will be needed next week."

Full-scale efforts were under way to round up a maximum number of blood-givers for the bloodmobile's next visit, scheduled next Wednesday at the First Methodist Church from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. The district organization stepped up its preparations after receiving an urgent notice that a regional blood shortage is in prospect.

Lagging turnouts in counties other than Pickaway apparently have brought about the "extreme urgency," but it was pointed out any restrictions on available blood at the hospitals would affect this county as well as the other areas.

The Rev. Fred Ketner, chairman of the Pickaway County blood program, asked for another record turnout here next Wednesday "because it will be the last visit of the bloodmobile in Circleville until next September."

THE LOCAL turnouts have been near or above quota in recent months, following a reorganization of the local program under the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Ketner and Larry Goeller, vice-chairman.

Thus the local organization was already geared to try for another record-breaker when the appeal for emergency efforts was received here. In view of the special need, Goeller then said he hoped all the local volunteers would swing into action immediately—either as donors or to help round up the donors.

Goeller said: "We need the full attention and cooperation of the county public on this one, especially because it will be the last visit of the bloodmobile until next September. We want all our regulars and other prospective donors to check in and see if your help will be needed next week."

Half Of Fire Truck Doesn't Answer Call

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Ladder truck No. 1 roared out of the firehouse, swung east and hurried to answer an alarm last night.

That is, the truck did. The trailer didn't. It rolled straight across the street, sideswiped one car and rammed a second.

The second car rolled into a third.

The third flashed down the sidewalk, clipped a lamp post, lumbered across the street and crunched into two other cars.

The fire? No damage. The trailer driver? He slept through it all in the fire house.

hat and waved. The morning sunlight brightened his pink faced smile.

The military guard drawn up in an open square around the edges of the parking apron stood at present arms.

Churchill shook hands with Vice President Richard Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles, British Ambassador Sir Roger Makins and other British envoys here.

Then, after a moment's conference with his American hosts, Churchill marched stoutly to waiting microphones and said:

"I have had a very comfortable journey from my fatherland to my mother's land. (His mother was an American.)

"I've come with Anthony Eden to talk over a few family matters and try to make sure that there are no misunderstandings.

"The English-speaking family or brotherhood is rather a large one and not entirely without a few things here and there.

"And if we work together we may get along all right ourselves and do a lot to help our neighbors in the world, some of whom on either side of the Iron Curtain seem to have even greater problems than ourselves."

When he finished speaking, Churchill turned to Secretary of State Dulles whom he has known for a long time and asked in his famous Churchillian growl "Was that all right?" Dulles grinned and warmly shook his hand.

Nine minutes after he set foot on American soil, Churchill climbed into an open convertible with Nixon and they drove to the White House. Eden and Dulles followed in a second car.

Eisenhower, never much of a hand for official welcomes at airports, reserved his greeting for the north portico of the White House.

Churchill and Eden will be guests of the chief executive through Sunday, after which they will move to the British Embassy.

The great specific issue before Eisenhower and Churchill is what, if anything, their nations are going to do about blocking Communist conquest in Southeast Asia.

Eisenhower and Dulles want quick British cooperation in steps to form an anti-Communist alliance in Southeast Asia. On Wednesday, Eden spoke of the possibility of

Hike In U. S. Debt Limit Hit By Byrd

Creeping Paternalism Draws Fire In Demand For Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress should reject an expected renewal of President Eisenhower's request to hike the national debt limit ceiling says Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), and should ban all new spending programs until the budget is balanced.

"Power follows the purse," Byrd told the National Council for Community Improvement, launching a drive for greater local self reliance and less reliance on Washington.

"The more the federal aid the greater the authority of the federal government over local affairs," Byrd said last night in an address closing the one-day meeting of representatives of 60 civic, industrial and welfare organizations.

The council met to organize a campaign for establishment of local community councils which would embrace the individual organizations working for civic betterment. Some 400 delegates from 38 states attended.

"CREeping paternalism is just as bad as creeping socialism," Byrd declared, "and the end result is the same—the destruction of the principles of our free government."

"Citizens can and must think of federal spending in terms of the national interest and stop pushing programs of local interests or of the spending lobbies."

He estimated the federal government now spends some $3 billion annually on 50 programs of aid to the states.

Byrd called on the council to work for reduced spending to balance the budget and for a moratorium on all new federal spending

Movies Press Fight Against Ohio Censors

COLUMBUS (AP)—The movie industry finished another round yesterday in its battle to stop all censorship of films in Ohio.

Its request for an injunction barring further censorship was taken under advisement by Common Pleas Judge Ralph J. Bartlett.

Bartlett did not say when he would decide the case. No matter how he decides it, the loser is expected to appeal, probably up to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The movie industry partly based its request on a Jan. 18 Supreme Court decision which upset Ohio's banning of the film "M" on grounds it tended to "incite to crime."

Harry Wright III, attorney for RKO Radio Pictures and the Independent Theater Owners of Ohio, argued the decision struck down that part of the Ohio censorship law which lists grounds on which films may be banned.

State censors, while admitting the Jan. 18 decision limited their operations, have maintained it still permitted state censorship of movies. Ohio has continued censorship and has banned four or five films since the Supreme Court decision.

Ten Others Cited In Plot To Curb Probe

3 New York Attorneys Named; Conspirators Include 'Dutchman'

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted four persons, including three lawyers, on charges of conspiring to corrupt Internal Revenue Service officials and to block congressional and grand jury tax investigations.

Ten other persons were named as co-conspirators but not defendants in the indictment which was first disclosed in Washington by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell.

None of those accused, mostly New Yorkers, could be reached immediately for comment.

Those named as co-conspirators included Daniel A. Bolich, former No. 2 man in the old Internal Revenue Bureau, and Henry W. (the Dutchman) Grunewald, long a mystery man here.

The eight-count indictment named as defendants:

Samuel Schopick and Irving Davis, partners in the former New York law firm of Schopick and Davis; Max Halperin, an attorney said to have been associated with the law firm from time to time; and Milton Hoffman, not an attorney but said to have occupied space with the law firm.

ONLY THE FIRST count of the indictment, which alleges conspiracy, included the names of the 10 alleged co-conspirators.

In addition to Grunewald and Bolich, the indictment named the following as co-conspirators:

Max Steinberg, former group chief in the office of the internal revenue agent in charge of the Upper New York division; Morton Marks, James A. Zipser, Marjorie Zipser Segal, and Samuel Cohen, share holders in Pattullo Modes, Inc., a dress manufacturing firm; Maurice Smith, an accountant for Pattullo Modes; Louis M. Lover's Farewell Kiss Brings Death

Colorado Springs Selected As Air Force Academy Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—The West Point of the Air training school for the young men who will man America's air armadas of the future, will be built near Colorado Springs, Colo.

Secretary of the Air Force Talbott announced his selection of that site late yesterday, ending years of bidding by rival sites which originally numbered in the hundreds but had been narrowed down to three by a special board.

Thus the Rocky Mountain country of the West gets the Air Force's counterpart of the two old service academies, both situated on the Atlantic seaboard: The Army's West Point, N. Y., and the Navy's Annapolis, Md.

Some 15,000 acres of rolling country which curves up to the wooded foothills of the Rocky Mountain chain dominated by 14,109-foot Pikes Peak will be the locale of the Air Force Academy, on which Congress has authorized the expenditure of $136 million.

THE ACADEMY is not expected to be ready for use before mid-1957. A temporary home will be established in Denver. Talbott's announcement did not say precisely where, but presumably it will be at Lowry Field, a big Air Force installation.

Nationalists Grab Tanker Owned By Reds

TAIPEH, Formosa (P)—National-ist China today announced that its navy seized the tanker Tupaese off Formosa Wednesday and it is being held at the port of Kaohsiung. The announcement did not mention nationality of the ship, which is owned by Russia.

The Nationalists charged that the tanker was carrying oil to a "Com-munist bandit" port on the Commu-nist mainland in violation of a U.N. embargo against such shipments.

The announcement said the Tupaese was seized while violating Na-tionalist China's port closure poli-cy—a term used to describe the Nationalist decree banning foreign ships from Red China ports.

The Tupaese's manifest showed its cargo was destined for the Communist Petroleum Corp. in Shanghai, the Nationalists said.

The announcement was issued by the government information bur-eau.

Prior to the official announce-ment, the Nationalists had made no mention of the ship and had banned publication in Formosan newspapers of reports that Russia had accused the U. S. Navy of seiz-ing the tanker.

He put it this way:

"I've come with Anthony Eden to talk over a few family matters and try to make sure that there are no misunderstandings."

Churchill, in gray suit and hom-burg and carrying a gold-headed cane, stepped down from the big American-built British Overseas Airways plane with Foreign Min-ister Eden at his side.

For a 79-year-old veteran of sev-eral wars and many historic diplo-matic conferences, Churchill moved with remarkable sprightliness. As the crowd gathered at the air-port cheered, Churchill lifted his hat and waved. The morning sun-light brightened his pink faced smile.

The military guard drawn up in an open square around the edges of the parking apron stood at pre-sent arms.

Churchill shook hands with Vice President Richard Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles, British Ambassador Sir Roger Makins and other British envoys here.

Then, after a moment's confer-ence with his American hosts, Churchill marched stoutly to wait-ing microphones and said:

"I have had a very comfortable journey from my fatherland to my mother's land. (His mother was an American.)

"I've come with Anthony Eden to talk over a few family matters

Hike In U. S. Debt Limit Hit By Byrd

Creeping Paternalism Draws Fire In Demand For Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON (P)—Congress should reject an expected renewal of President Eisenhower's request to hike the national debt limit ceil-ing says Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), and should ban all new spending pro-grams until the budget is balanced.

"Power follows the purse," Byrd told the National Council for Community Improvement, launching a drive for greater lo-cal self reliance and less reliance on Washington.

"The more the federal aid the greater the authority of the federal government over local affairs," Byrd said last night in an address closing the one-day meeting of rep-resentatives of 60 civic, industrial and welfare organizations.

The council met to organize a campaign for establishment of lo-cal community councils which would embrace the individual or-ganizations working for civic bet-terment. Some 400 delegates from 38 states attended.

"CREEPING paternalism is just as bad as creeping socialism," Byrd declared, "and the end result is the same—the destruction of the principles of our free govern-ment."

"Citizens can and must think of federal spending in terms of the national interest and stop pushing programs of local interests or of the spending lobbies."

He estimated the federal govern-ment now spends some $3 billion annually on 50 programs of aid to the states.

Byrd called on the council to work for reduced spending to bal-ance the budget and for a mora-torium on all new federal spending

Lover's Farewell Kiss Brings Death

TOKYO (P)—Pretty Teruko Ka-mata was sentenced to four years in prison by Tokyo District Court today for killing her lover with a farewell kiss of death.

Teruko, 27, and Yukio Takaya-naga, 33, were the lovers. Yukio's passion cooled and Teruko told him she would rather die than live without him. She took a gulp of soda water spiked with cyanide. Then she kissed her lov-er and forced the liquid down his throat.

Takayanaga swallowed and died.

Movies Press Fight Against Ohio Censors

COLUMBUS (P)—The movie in-dustry finished another round yes-terday in its battle to stop all cen-sorship of films in Ohio.

Its request for an injunction bar-ring further censorship was taken under advisement by Common Pleas Judge Ralph J. Bartlett.

Bartlett did not say when he would decide the case. No matter how he decides it, the loser is ex-pected to appeal, probably up to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The movie industry partly based its request on a Jan. 18 Supreme Court decision which upset Ohio's banning of the film "M" on grounds it tended to "incite to crime."

Harry Wright III, attorney for RKO Radio Pictures and the In-dependent Theater Owners of Ohio, argued the decision struck down that part of the Ohio censorship law which lists grounds on which films may be banned.

State censors, while admitting the Jan. 18 decision limited their operations, have maintained it still permitted state censorship of mov-ies. Ohio has continued censorship and has banned four or five films since the Supreme Court decision.

Half Of Fire Truck Doesn't Answer Call

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (P)—Ladder truck No. 1 roared out of the firehouse, swung east and hur-ried to answer an alarm last night.

That is, the truck did. The trailer didn't. It rolled straight across the street, sideswined one car and rammed a second.

The second car rolled into a third.

The third flashed down the sidewalk, clipped a lamp post, lumbered across the street and crunched into two other cars.

The fire? Just a sprinkler alarm, no damage. The trailer driver? He slept through it all in the fire house.

Nixon and they drove to the White House. Eden and Dulles followed in a second car.

Eisenhower, never much of a hand for official welcomes at air-ports, reserved his greeting for the north portico of the White House.

Churchill and Eden will be guests of the chief executive through Sunday, after which they will move to the British Em-bassy.

The great specific issue before Eisenhower and Churchill is what, if anything, their nations are going to do about blocking Communist conquest in Southeast Asia.

Eisenhower and Dulles want quick British cooperation in steps to form an anti-Communist alliance in Southeast Asia. On Wednesday, Eden spoke of the possibility of

3 New York Attorneys Named; Conspirators Include 'Dutchman'

NEW YORK (P)—A federal grand jury today indicted four persons, including three lawyers, on charg-es of conspiring to corrupt Inter-nal Revenue Service officials and to block congressional and grand jury tax investigations.

Ten other persons were named as co-conspirators but not defend-ants in the indictment which was first disclosed in Washington by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell.

None of those accused, mostly New Yorkers, could be reached immediately for comment.

Those named as co-conspirators included Daniel A. Bolich, former No. 2 man in the old Internal Re-venue Bureau, and Henry W. (the Dutchman) Grunewald, long a mystery man here.

The eight-count indictment named as defendants:

Samuel Schopick and Irving Davis, partners in the former New York law firm of Schopick and Davis; Max Halperin, an attorney said to have been associated with the law firm from time to time; and Milton Hoffman, not an attorney but said to have occupied space with the law firm.

ONLY THE FIRST count of the indictment, which alleges conspir-acy, included the names of the 10 alleged co-conspirators.

In addition to Grunewald and Bolich, the indictment named the following as co-conspirators:

Max Steinberg, former group chief in the office of the internal revenue agent in charge of the Upper New York division; Morton Marks, James A. Zipser, Marjorie Zipser Segal, and Samuel Co-hen, share holders in Pattullo Modes, Inc., a dress manufactur-ing firm; Maurice Smith, an ac-countant for Pattullo Modes; Louis M. Berman and Philip Berman,

Colorado Springs Selected As Air Force Academy Site

WASHINGTON (P)—The West Point of the Air training school for the young men who will man America's air armadas of the fu-ture, will be built near Colorado Springs, Colo.

Secretary of the Air Force Tal-bott announced his selection of that site late yesterday, ending years of bidding by rival sites which originally numbered in the hundreds but had been narrowed down to three by a special board.

Thus the Rocky Mountain coun-try of the West gets the Air Force's counterpart of the two old ser-vice academies, both situated on the Atlantic seaboard: The Army's West Point, N. Y., and the Navy's Annapolis, Md.

Some 15,000 acres of rolling coun-try which curves up to the wooded foothills of the Rocky Mountain chain dominated by 14,109-foot Pikes Peak will be the locale of the Air Force Academy, on which Congress has authorized the ex-penditure of $136 million.

THE ACADEMY is not expected to be ready for use before mid-1957. A temporary home will be established in Denver. Talbott's announcement did not say precisely where, but presumably it will be at Lowry Field, a big Air Force installation.

Talbott described the Colorado Springs site as "admirable for the establishment and development of the school," which he said is "des-tined to play an essential part in the future of our country."

Whether President Eisenhower had a choice in the final selection was not known. Talbott had quoted the President as saying some months ago that he had a choice, but would not say where.

Mrs. Eisenhower's home is in Denver, 71 miles north of Colo-rado Springs, and the President

Summer's Heat Bothers Truman

KANSAS CITY (P)—Temperatures near the 100-degree mark bothered former President Harry S. Tru-man, recovering from an opera-tion, but he has declined to move to a cooler hospital room.

Dr. Wallace Graham said Tru-man "is feeling pretty good but he's been bothered a little by a penicillin rash. And he won't let us move him to a cooler room."

The 70-year-old former President underwent surgery last Sunday for removal of his gall bladder and appendix.

as of aiding the rebellion being waged by Guatemalans who had been in exile in Honduras. The Hondurans denied the charge and counter-claimed that Guatemalan planes had bombed their soil.

Guatemala's demand that Honduras and neighboring Nicaragua obey a U. N. Security Council resolution against helping either side in the war was before the council today.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the council president, called the 11-nation group to meet this afternoon after the council's Latin-American members, Brazil and Colombia, acceded to the Guatemalan appeal and asked for a session.

Diplomatic sources said they got their request to Lodge just a few minutes before the Soviet Union formally demanded a meeting.

The Russians first came to the aid of the Guatemalan government last Sunday, when Soviet Delegate Semyor K. Tsarapkin vetoed a Brazilian resolution to shunt the Guatemalan case to the Organization of American States.

The Inter-American Organization's five-nation Peace Committee announced in Washington last night that, if Guatemala agrees, it will send a fact finding committee to check on the charges against Nicaragua and Honduras.

Guatemala's reply to the proposal was reported on the way to the committee. Some members said it would be favorable.

Police Launch Search For Meter Vandals

Safety Director Oscar Root and Police Chief Elmer Merriman joined Friday in launching a "crack-down lookout" for vandals who have been breaking or tampering with the city's parking meters.

Police displayed newly painted metal tags which were torn from atop downtown meters recently. Nolan Dunkle, city parking meter man, said eight of the metal pieces have been ripped from meters since the early part of last week.

The metal plates call attention to the type of meter—whether it permits parking for one hour or 30 minutes, and hence the information is important to the motorist.

With or without the metal tags on top, however, parking violators will not have an excuse, police warn. The meter itself is adequately marked even without the top piece.

MERRIMAN SAID:

"It's just the prank of some wise guys, of course, this tearing off of the metal plates. But when we catch somebody at it, there isn't going to be much to laugh at."

Root pointed out the vandalism is viewed with special concern at this time since the city is in the process of setting up a new parking meter system. Therefore, he warned, "we're going to prosecute to the full extent of the law" if vandals are caught.

Root said the penalty under certain circumstances can amount to a penitentiary term.

1946 Officer Slaying Case Given Push

BONN, Germany (AP)—The U. S. High Commission recommended today the U. S. Department of Justice decide whether former Army Capt. James M. Leech of Lima, Ohio, should stand trial for the murders of three fellow Army officers in Germany in 1946.

The high commission made this recommendation to the Department of Justice after its legal experts completed an examination of evidence submitted in Frankfurt by American prosecutor Thomas C. Lancian of Everett, Mass.

Lancian had recommended that the Justice Department decide whether further action should be taken on the case when he sent to the high commission the evidence he has gathered on the case.

Leech, 40, was charged last May 21 with the ax and arson murders of Maj. Everett S. Coffan of Washington, D. C., Capt. Adrian L. Wessler of New Rochelle, N. Y., and First Lt. Stanley M. Rosewater of Omaha, Neb.

William D. Canfield of Hampden, Mass., who was then Lancian's deputy, filed the charges. Canfield charged the case "had been hushed up for eight years."

Leech had been held and questioned by Army investigators after the killings but he was not charged with them during the Army investigation. Leech maintains he is innocent of the crimes.

High Commission officials said State Department legal experts will review the evidence submitted from here. They can either kill the case or submit it to the Justice Department, the officials said.

If it goes to the Justice Department, legal officials there will make the final decision on whether a district court in Ohio should be asked to extradite Leech.

Weatherman Cooking Up Hot Weekend

June's sizzling brand of hot weather was being cooked up for most of the nation today.

Sunny skies and temperatures in the 80s and 90s were in prospect for wide areas. The same scorching weather is due tomorrow.

The northern tier of states appeared escaping the hot blasts while some areas got a little relief from cooling showers.

The blanket of hot air over the Southwest and West moved into the Mississippi Valley and a day of hot and humid weather was predicted. The East also was in for some 90-plus readings but there was some comfort in low humidity.

Temperatures again yesterday were 100 and above in Kansas, eastern Colorado and southern Nebraska but there was some relief in Wyoming, northwestern Nebraska, western South Dakota, North Dakota and Montana.

The Ohio five-day forecast: Temperatures will average six or eight degrees above normal. Normal maximum 82 to 87. Normal minimum 61 to 62. Hot and above normal central and south portions Saturday through Tuesday. Temporary cooling in Lake Erie region over weekend and possibly turning cooler in most of state Wednesday.

A few scattered thundershowers in Lake Erie region Saturday and widely scattered thundershowers Tuesday or Wednesday. Rainfall will average one-quarter to one-half inch over the north and less than one-quarter inch in south.

such a defense pact, but he discounted the chance that it would do any good in the immediate future. And he coupled it with a suggestion for Lacarno-like non-aggression pacts, presumably including both Red China and the United States.

The United States cold-shouldered this suggestion. Officials suspected it was motivated (1) by a desire on Eden's part to show independence of American policy ideas, and (2) to place another obstacle in the way of any quick agreement on an Asian pact.

British diplomats, on the other hand, said the Eden proposal was put forward in all seriousness as a practical way of obtaining support for an Asian security system of British Commonwealth countries like India, Burma, and Ceylon which tend to be "neutrals" in their foreign policies.

'Flying Saucer' Report Is Heard

DAYTON (AP)—Air Force officials are investigating a "flying saucer" reported yesterday.

Harry L. Roe Jr., an Ohio National Guard pilot, said he saw the "unidentified object" near Columbus yesterday and it followed him to the airport at Vandallia. It took off when he gave chase back to near Columbus, he said, adding that "it looked like a round white light," but that he didn't believe in "saucers."

Local Officials Are Attending Crime Session

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer and Sheriff Charles Radcliff are attending the second annual Crime Control Conference in Columbus Friday and Saturday.

A featured speaker Saturday will be Judge William D. Radcliff, of Common Pleas Court here.

Judge Radcliff who is president of the Common Pleas Judges Association, will talk on the subject, "The Court, The Prosecutor and The Enforcement Officer". Judge Radcliff has held his office in Pickaway County continuously since Jan. 1, 1947.

Purpose of the Columbus conference is to provide a central meeting in which new methods and common problems may be discussed by law enforcement officials in Ohio.

THE CONFERENCE is sponsored by the Buckeye State Sheriffs Association, the Fraternal Order of Police, the Prosecuting Attorneys Association and the Common Pleas Judges Association.

Sessions will continue all day Friday and will conclude with a luncheon Saturday. Speakers include William P. Rogers, deputy attorney general of the U. S. Department of Justice and H. J. Anslinger, of the U. S. Treasury Department's Bureau of Narcotics.

2 Persons Killed In Athens Crash

ATHENS (AP)—Two persons were killed today when an automobile struck a parked bread truck on U. S. 33 between Athens and Nelsonville.

Mrs. Blanche Rutter, 34, of Kimbly, was believed to have died instantly in the accident. Mose Rosser, 38, of Nelsonville, died shortly after the accident in a hospital in Nelsonville.

Mrs. Rutter's 11-year-old son and Juanita Kirkendall of Athens suffered minor injuries.

Jack Robinette, identified by the state highway patrol as the driver of the automobile in which the party was riding, escaped injury.

2 More FHA Aides Get Suspensions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Housing and Home Finance Agency announced today that two more long-time officials of the Federal Housing Administration have been suspended pending disposition of charges of "serious irregularities."

The announcement by administrator Albert W. Cole gave no details of the allegations against the two men: James E. Hicks of Washington, director of FHA's Region 2; and Andrew Frost of Albuquerque, assistant state director for New Mexico.

Police Launch Search For Meter Vandal

Safety Director Oscar Root and Police Chief Elmer Merriman joined Friday in launching a "crack-down lookout" for vandals who have been breaking or tampering with the city's parking meters.

Police displayed newly painted metal tags which were torn from downtown meters recently. Nolan Dunkle, city parking meter man, said eight of the metal pieces have been ripped from meters since the early part of last week.

The metal plates call attention to the type of meter—whether it permits parking for one hour or 30 minutes, and hence the information is important to the motorist.

With or without the metal tags on top, however, parking violators will not have an excuse, police warn. The meter itself is adequately marked even without the top piece.

MERRIMAN SAID:

"It's just the prank of some wise guys, of course, this tearing off of the metal plates. But when we catch somebody at it, there isn't going to be much to laugh at."

Root pointed out the vandalism is viewed with special concern at this time since the city is in the process of setting up a new parking meter system. Therefore, he warned, "we're going to prosecute to the full extent of the law" if vandals are caught.

Root said the penalty under certain circumstances can amount to a penitentiary term.

1946 Officer Slaying Case Given Push

BONN, Germany (AP)—The U. S. High Commission recommended today the U. S. Department of Justice decide whether former Army Capt. James M. Leech of Lima, Ohio, should stand trial for the murders of three fellow Army officers in Germany in 1946.

The high commission made this recommendation to the Department of Justice after its legal experts completed an examination of evidence submitted in Frankfurt by American prosecutor Thomas C. Lanciau of Everett, Mass.

Lanciau had recommended that the Justice Department decide whether further action should be taken on the case when he sent to the high commission the evidence he has gathered on the case.

Leech, 40, was charged last May 21 with the ax and arson murders of Maj. Everett S. Cofran of Washington, D. C., Capt. Adrian L. Wessler of New Rochelle, N. Y., and First Lt. Stanley M. Rosewater of Omaha, Neb.

William D. Canfield of Hampden, Mass., who was then Lanciau's deputy, filed the charges. Canfield charged the case "had been hushed up for eight years."

Leech had been held and questioned by Army investigators after the killings but he was not charged with them during the Army investigation. Leech maintains he is innocent of the crimes.

High Commission officials said State Department legal experts will review the evidence submitted from here. They can either kill the case or submit it to the Justice Department, the officials said.

If it goes to the Justice Department, legal officials there will make the final decision on whether a district court in Ohio should be asked to extradite Leech.

Weatherman Cooking Up Hot Weekend

June's sizzling brand of hot weather was being cooked up for most of the nation today.

Sunny skies and temperatures in the 80s and 90s were in prospect for wide areas. The same scorching weather is due tomorrow.

The northern tier of states appeared escaping the hot blasts while some areas got a little relief from cooling showers.

The blanket of hot air over the Southwest and West moved into the Mississippi Valley and a day of hot and humid weather was predicted. The East also was in for some 90-plus readings but there was some comfort in low humidity.

Temperatures again yesterday were 100 and above in Kansas, eastern Colorado and southern Nebraska but there was some relief in Wyoming, northwestern Nebraska, western South Dakota, North Dakota and Montana.

The Ohio five-day forecast: Temperatures will average six or eight degrees above normal. Normal maximum 82 to 87. Normal minimum 61 to 62. Hot and above normal central and south portions Saturday through Tuesday. Temporary cooling in Lake Erie region over weekend and possibly turning cooler in most of state Wednesday.

A few scattered thundershowers in Lake Erie region Saturday and widely scattered thundershowers Tuesday or Wednesday. Rainfall will average one-quarter to one-half inch over the north and less than one-quarter inch in south.

such a defense pact, but he discounted the chance that it would do any good in the immediate future. And he coupled it with a suggestion for Lacarno-like non-aggression pacts, presumably including both Red China and the United States.

The United States cold-shouldered this suggestion. Officials suspected it was motivated (1) by a desire on Eden's part to show independence of American policy ideas, and (2) to place another obstacle in the way of any quick agreement on an Asian pact.

British diplomats, on the other hand, said the Eden proposal was put forward in all seriousness as a practical way of obtaining support for an Asian security system of British Commonwealth countries like India, Burma, and Ceylon which tend to be "neutralists" in their foreign policies.

Politics Reduces France To Weakest Link In West

(EDITOR'S NOTE—In previous articles this week William L. Ryan has reported the story of the shaky French empire as he found it in both Indochina and North Africa. In today's concluding article he returns to Paris and explores the explosive political situation in the nation which holds within itself many answers to the problems of Western unity.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News-Editor

PARIS (AP)—French politics has taken a robust and proud nation and turned it into the weakest link in the West's defenses.

The troubles of the French empire have become the woes of the Western world, while French politicians wring their hands and tumble from bad to worse internal dissension.

A piece of the empire already has slipped away—many say by default—in Indochina, and Western defense plans must be revised. And as France turns her attention to the rest of her overseas territory, much of it boiling, many a Frenchman openly admits the decline of the great nation's power.

In Indochina, France stacked the cards against herself. She permitted no political organization which would fill the vacuum that might some day be left by French departure. Politically, all Viet Nam stands to be engulfed eventually by the Communists, whether the shooting war ends formally or not. Communism will have gobbled up another piece of real estate, largely by political means.

In North Africa, the meaning of the battle of Dien Bien Phu and the humiliation of France were not upon the Nationalist movements. Many forces were anxious to bring the message home to North Africa.

Tunis is in dangerous condition with an organized rebel force—its leaders' political leanings a matter of mystery—already in action and requiring the French to step up their military forces.

In Morocco terror increases daily, much of it inspired by opportunists attempting to seize and take over the Nationalist cause.

In Algeria, older in the French framework and more solidly held after a century of occupation, Nationalists openly announce themselves as willing to wait for the time being. They frankly say France still has too much military power in Algeria, that they will not waste their manpower in futile gestures. But with each blow to French prestige, Algerian Nationalists grow more hopeful. And the Communist party is legal in Algeria, though outlawed in Tunis and Morocco, and has a grip on the largest section of the labor movement.

France faces the prospect of being able to remain in Tunis and Morocco only by force. It may take some time to develop, but the pattern of an Indochina could repeat itself.

Is there a way for France to find herself again? Some hope is being expressed here that new leadership will be more attuned to the will of the people, less splintered and less prey to minority pressure on the extreme left and right.

Eventually, the way out of France's dilemma may lie in the very weakness of her governments. The constitution provides that parliament may be dissolved if two governments fall by an absolute majority within an 18-month period. The Rene Mayer cabinet fell by such a majority in May 1953. The ouster of another government before next November under similar circumstances could pave the way for new elections.

Political analysts say it seems likely that the Communists—after their performance with regard to Dien Bien Phu—would lose votes. The extreme right, represented by the DeGaullists, is split over internal party issues and also stands to lose votes in an election. These factors would tend to strengthen the center parties and France might emerge with the power to form a stable government which would end Paris' wearying indecision.

It seems clear that the Geneva Conference went according to Communist schedule so far as France was concerned. It was plain at the outset the Communists hoped to capitalize on French weariness with the Indochina War. They did. It was plain they hoped to cause the fall of the government of Premier Joseph Laniel so that it might be succeeded by one willing to deal with the Indochina Communists. The French government fell. The Communists then dangled some Geneva bait before the French to keep the Indochina phase of the conference alive and raise French hopes that the proper attitude on the part of a new government might bring a settlement.

As President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill meet in Washington to survey the wrecked hopes of Geneva, they have before them the picture of a problem ally, France, a keystone of Western defenses which conceivably could be pushed out of place by a strong nudge from the East. Already France's governmental paralysis has all but laid low the hopes of unity in a European Defense Community.

French political leaders of the center frankly worry about the future of the French union so vital to France as a great market and a great source of supply, so vital to the West as a springboard for counter-attack in case of war.

Representative of these is Marcel Edmond Naegelen, a Socialist who formerly was governor general of Algeria and who refused the job of resident general of Morocco recently. Naegelen has called for "intellectual and moral reconquest" of North Africa to avoid the mistakes of Indochina before it is too late.

France's politicians say she has a mission to fulfill in her colonial world. Whatever that mission, whatever the ambitions of local peoples, the stern fact is that these areas have become ramparts of Western civilization. It will take skilful imagination and sound judgment to keep them in the free world's camp.

Girl Interested Only In Birthday

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Pamela Schmidt, well and happy once more, tonight was more interested in her fifth birthday, coming July 9, than in the fact she was the subject of a heart operation shown on millions of the nation's television screens.

"She's playing just like any other little girl," said her mother, Mrs. Ronald Schmidt, last night. "But we can hardly believe that last year about this time she was given only six months to a year to live. After a checkup the doctors are making shortly after the first of the month, they expect all restrictions on her activities will be lifted."

"That's why Pamela is so happy because she can ride her tricycle again for her birthday."

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill and Britain's Foreign Minister Eden, bearing an Alice-in-Wonderland plan for saving Southeast Asia, today begin talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

There are no optimistic predictions here about the outcome of the conference. The plan, which Eden announced Wednesday in London, is of such a kind that it raises some legitimate questions: Just how interested are the British in wanting to save Southeast Asia from communism? Is this Eden plan a joke, a smoke-screen, or a stalling tactic to cover up basic British unwillingness to defend Southeast Asia?

It's a strange plan, coming from Churchill and Eden who prided themselves on wanting a stern stand against Hitler in those days before Munich when other Britons were preparing to bow their necks.

In Indochina the French have been fighting the Communist-led Vietminh for almost eight years. The Vietminh are beginning to smash them back. The French are war-weary. The United States and Britain so far are unwilling to go to their rescue.

So the French are talking about an armistice with the Communists. This armistice, if it comes, may result in opening the way for the Reds to take over all Indochina.

After that, unless the Western Allies can find some way to stop them, the Communists have all the rest of Southeast Asia open to them. So far the Allies have not been able to agree on the way.

The United States is in an awkward position if it tries to tell the French not to sign an armistice displeasing to this country. The Eisenhower administration had talked very big about stopping communism in Asia.

But when the crisis came in Indochina, it did not send in troops nor planes to help the French.

Now Dulles wants the United States, Britain, France, and the South Pacific nations to form a military alliance which will fight if the Communists go beyond a certain line. That line is still a vague thing.

At this point Eden comes into the picture. Churchill's aides say Britain will go along with the kind of alliance Dulles has in mind if the United States agrees to go along with the kind Eden has in mind.

Eden suggests a "Locarno" type agreement. The Locarno Treaty of 1925 committed Britain, Germany, France, Belgium and Poland to go to the help of anyone of them who was attacked. It broke down when Hitler decided to attack.

Under Eden's plan the United States, Britain, France, Russia, China, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia would sign the new "Locarno" agreement. Then if anyone of them was attacked all the others would go to its rescue.

This is a guarantee of nothing. Since the Communists attacked in Korea when it suited them, it is reasonable to assume they would break the new "Locarno" by attacking any or all of the other signers when it suited them and they thought they were strong enough to get away with it.

But even that reasoning has a large element of the fairy tale. Neither Russia nor China would necessarily have to break the new "Locarno" by actually sending troops across a frontier.

They might conquer the other Southeast Asian nations, without open act of war, by using local Communists to start a revolution, just as happened in Indochina against the French.

But Britain, by wanting the "Locarno" agreement approved before it agrees on Dulles' plan, puts a stumbling block in the way of any plan at all to save Southeast Asia. This country probably would not sign the "Locarno."

Time is important in Southeast Asia. Even if the United States was willing to sign Eden's plan, the Communists could stall on signing, if it suited their purpose, until they had undermined Southeast Asia. Meanwhile, they couldn't be stopped because Dulles' plan wouldn't have been approved yet.

Eye Protection At Eclipse Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The American Medical Assn. House of Delegates today urged that persons watching the eclipse of the sun next Wednesday protect their eyes with pieces of heavily-smoked glass.

The eclipse will be visible in the United States from Nebraska northeastward.

The AMA's section on ophthalmology said "colored glasses are neither protectors nor of value."

Previously exposed X-ray film was described as an alternative to smoked glass.

World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill and Britain's Foreign Minister Eden, bearing an Alices-in-Wonderland plan for saving Southeast Asia, today begin talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

There are no optimistic predictions here about the outcome of the conference. The plan, which Eden announced Wednesday in London, is of such a kind that it raises some legitimate questions: Just how interested are the British in wanting to save Southeast Asia from communism? Is this Eden plan a joke, a smoke-screen, or a stalling tactic to cover up basic British unwillingness to defend Southeast Asia?

It's a strange plan, coming from Churchill and Eden who prided themselves on wanting a stern stand against Hitler in those days before Munich when other Britons were preparing to bow their necks. In Indochina the French have been fighting the Communist-led Vietminh for almost eight years. The Vietminh are beginning to smash them back. The French are war-weary. The United States and Britain so far are unwilling to go to their rescue.

So the French are talking about an armistice with the Communists. This armistice, if it comes, may result in opening the way for the Reds to take over all Indochina.

After that, unless the Western Allies can find some way to stop them, the Communists have all the rest of Southeast Asia open to them. So far the Allies have not been able to agree on the way.

The United States is in an awkward position if it tries to tell the French not to sign an armistice displeasing to this country. The Eisenhower administration had talked very big about stopping communism in Asia.

But when the crisis came in Indochina, it did not send in troops nor planes to help the French.

Now Dulles wants the United States, Britain, France, and the South Pacific nations to form a military alliance which will fight if the Communists go beyond a certain line. That line is still a vague thing.

At this point Eden comes into the picture. Churchill's aides say Britain will go along with the kind of alliance Dulles has in mind if the United States agrees to go along with the kind Eden has in mind.

Eden suggests a "Locarno" type agreement. The Locarno Treaty of 1925 committed Britain, Germany, France, Belgium and Poland to go to the help of anyone of them who was attacked. It broke down when Hitler decided to attack.

Under Eden's plan the United States, Britain, France, Russia, China, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia would sign the new "Locarno" agreement. Then if anyone of them was attacked all the others would go to its rescue.

This is a guarantee of nothing. Since the Communists attacked in Korea when it suited them, it is reasonable to assume they would break the new "Locarno" by attacking any or all of the other signers when it suited them and they thought they were strong enough to get away with it.

But even that reasoning has a large element of the fairy tale. Neither Russia nor China would necessarily have to break the new "Locarno" by actually sending troops across a frontier.

Kored Medical Practices Fantastic To U.S. Officers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The North Koreans had some fantastic medical treatments for their prisoners of war, a U. S. Army doctor reported here.

Prisoners complaining of vitamin deficiencies were given bile from the gall bladders of butchered pigs, Maj. Alexander M. Boysen of the Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., told the American Medical Assn.

This treatment did a good job of keeping men away from sick call.

For the treatment of pain a Chinese doctor used a series of short needles attached to spring vibrators. The needles were put into the skin around the painful area and made to vibrate.

"As you might suspect," Boysen said, "some cases of back pain and headache were cured by this treatment."

Another Chinese doctor decided all complaints of eye trouble were caused by glaucoma, a condition in which the fluid pressure in the eyeball increases.

THE CHINESE medic treated all eye patients with salt water injections under the eyelid, the medical officer reported.

Boysen spoke of the experiences of himself and four other medical officers who had been captured. The others were Maj. Clarence L. Anderson, now at Letterman Hospital, San Francisco; Maj. Sidney Esensten, now in private practice in Minneapolis; Capt. Gene M. Lam, now at Brooke Medical Center, and Capt. William R. Shadish, now at Walter Reed Army Center, Washington, D. C.

In the spring of 1953 food became so scarce that prisoners ate boiled weeds, Boysen reported.

Frequently the only medicines available were cough tablets for pneumonia and charcoal tablets for dysentery. Incisions for drainage of abscesses were made without anesthesia and sometimes with improvised instruments, such as the metal arch support from a combat boot.

Virtually all deaths in the Communist war prison camps were caused directly or indirectly by starvation, exposure and harassment, Boysen said.

The average Chinese doctor would treat only the chief complaint of a prisoner, said the officer. A patient suffering from both night blindness and diarrhea had to choose one of the two for treatment.

Moody Improving After Illness

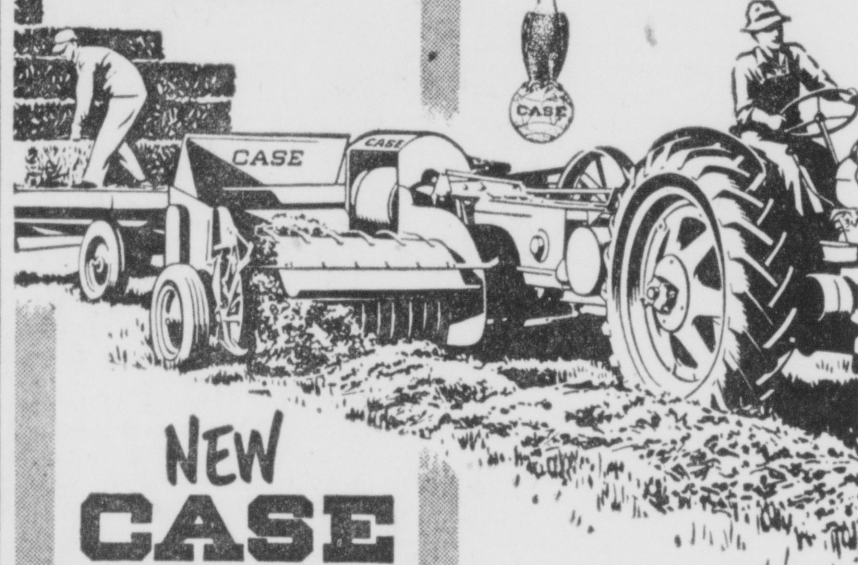

HANCOCK, Mich. (AP)—Former Senator Blair Moody, stricken with a combination of virus pneumonia and a heart ailment, was reported "dramatically improved" today.

His doctors and Democratic spokesmen said all indications were that he would be able to continue his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate seat he once held for 19 months.

Moody, 52, was rushed to St. Joseph Hospital in this far northern Michigan community early yesterday as he launched a campaign swing through the Upper Peninsula.

His trouble was diagnosed as pneumonia. But a few hours later a heart ailment caused complications and he spent most of the day unconscious and in an oxygen tent.

available were cough tablets for pneumonia and charcoal tablets for dysentery. Incisions for drainage of abscesses were made without anesthesia and sometimes with improvised instruments, such as the metal arch support from a combat boot.

Virtually all deaths in the Communist war prison camps were caused directly or indirectly by starvation, exposure and harassment, Boysen said.

The average Chinese doctor would treat only the chief complaint of a prisoner, said the officer. A patient suffering from both night blindness and diarrhea had to choose one of the two for treatment.

BALES THAT STAY TIED...

Yes, the new Model "140" Case Baler makes neat, firm, uniform bales, twine-tied to stay tied with regular twine. You'll like the way its floating pick-up and continuous side feed save more protein-rich leaves by gentle, easy handling. With slicing and compressing accomplished by separate plungers, alternately timed, power peaks do not occur at the same time. This results in smoother, firmer baling and longer baler life. Come in for all the facts.

Perhaps the easiest explanation is that a business that has expanded enormously during boom years finds it more difficult to operate at its former level than would have been the case had its activities followed a more even course.

Both Packard and Studebaker were given gigantic war orders by the government during World War II, and Studebaker especially enjoyed a boom in car sales during the automobile shortage years of 1946-51.

The larger automobile companies are engaged in all-out selling campaigns, with no quarter asked or given, and some automobile men predict additional mergers.

Moreover it was he who suggested the selection of Jenkins as committee counsel.

Jenkins denies that he subjected the McCarthy group — Roy Cohn, Frank Carr and other members of the McCarthy staff — to less harsh cross-examination than the 13-day grueling he administered to Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and to John G. Adams, Army counsel.

But Committee attaches and newspaper reporters, as well as KIND WORD — Jenkins has compounded this political confusion with his recent admission that he would be glad to have McCarthy's help if he should decide to run against another celebrated Senate investigator, "Detective" Kefauver. It is also understood that Committee Chairman Karl E. Mundt, who must face the voters in South Dakota next fall will not be averse to a kind word from the anti-Communist crusader from Wisconsin.

Thus, although President Eisenhower, Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. and Sherman Adams, White House chief of staff, have condemned McCarthy indirectly in recent speeches and interviews, the politician responsible for helping to elect a Republican Senate next fall, Senator Dirksen, takes his stand along side McCarthy.

These Days

The tradition of Russian Conquest, from earliest times when the Duchy of Muscovy expanded into the territories of its neighbors, has been to move in all directions until its efforts were arrested. Thus Siberia was taken because no force existed in that vast expanse to prevent it from being taken. The expansion toward the Pacific was the achievement of Muraviev Amurski, a freebooting Cossack, who was not resisted.

The Ukraine became Russian but Poland avoided conquest for a while by resisting and Russia only gained that country in the course of four alliances, the last being with Hitler's Germany. When Turkey resisted, Russia's advance into Southern Asia was arrested.

Both Czarist and Soviet Russia preferred to roll like a snowball rather than to fight an aggressive war. In the conquest of China, Rumania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Poland and Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Universal State employed the Marxist Church as an instrument of war. In Korea, resistance was encountered and that issue is not settled. In Indochina, resistance was encountered and that issue is not settled. Should the resistance cease, these countries will become part of the Soviet Universal State through the accumulation of adherents to the Marxist Church.

When the Russians and their satellites use the term, peace, they mean what we call war, namely, the conquest of territory and peoples. The reason why they call war peace is that the accumulation of territory by the Soviet Universal State is achieved by what to them is a voluntary action, namely that adherents of the Marxist Church, having infiltrated the government, educational and labor organizations, gain sufficient power by means of United Fronts to produce a People's Republic.

The People's Republic is a device of conquest. It is the camel's nose under the tent flap which in time becomes an occupation. Not a single instance can be cited of a People's Republic failing to become a Soviet Satellite.

If the instance of Yugoslavia comes to mind, it is not to be forgotten that Yugoslavia is a schismatic Marxist State. Should France, which has an enormous and effective Communist Party, admit Communists in its Cabinet, an attempt will be made to reconstruct various United Fronts in the hope that a People's Republic (sometimes called a People's Democracy) can be organized. In Guatemala, a People's Republic is, in effect, in existence, although an impression to the contrary is being given.

The test of true adherence to the current line of the Marxist Church is emphasis on peace. Every public reference must be to peace. The objective of such peace is to achieve by voluntary action, if possible, the adherence of all countries throughout the world to the Soviet Universal State. Thus, the Communist Party of Indochina, once it comes into possession of any part of that country, adheres to the Soviet Universal State automatically. The same is true of East Germany, of North Korea. It could be true of any country.

The existence, in any country, of a Communist Party, overt or disguised by means of the use of some other name, means that United Fronts can be organized, that a People's Republic can be arranged and a country can be conquered from within, utilizing natives as a political force.

Nurse Lady

By ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

SYNOPSIS

Cynthia Doyle is a nurse at a clinic for underprivileged children in a city near Washington, D. C. While on duty, she witnesses an accident in which a small boy is struck and injured by a flashy sports car. She rushes to the victim's aid. An angry mob gathers to threaten Norman Brandt, driver of the accident car, but Dr. Sellars of the clinic arrives via ambulance, alerts the police, and the injured boy is taken to the hospital. Cynthia proceeds homeward to the apartment shared by her and glamorous Roz Effinger and plain Nora McClary, both nurses. Roz excitedly awaits a "date." He arrives in the person of Norman Brandt, driver of the ill-fated car. In eager surprise he turns to Cynthia, but Roz manages to speed him along their way, blithely making it known that Cyn is in love with Dr. Sellars.

CHAPTER FIVE

"SO THIS is where you live?" The visitor looked around with appreciation and approval. He made himself quite comfortable in the chair Cynthia had vacated. Her white Oxford shoes were still half under it. He said, with a wide grin and that look of his that again made them guilty partners in crime, or in some secret, "A cozy little nest. Suits you much better than where I discovered you. I'm glad you're a friend of Roz's. Roz is an old friend of mine, which makes us practically acquainted."

"I don't see why it should," Cynthia did not want to sound snippy, but she had to put him in his place. He had spoken of Roz as though she never had been more than a friend of his, yet Cynthia knew that Roz did not feel that way about it. And she resented his saying that he had "discovered her," and taking it for granted that it was a beginning of some kind.

"You know you might give a fellow a chance," Norman Brandt said. "I'm really not so bad, even if we did meet under circumstances that placed me in a bad light. Which reminds me—I went to the hospital, and Julius is doing as well as can be expected, which was all I could get out of that poker-faced doctor of yours."

"It's all the information any doctor could give," Cynthia found herself immediately supporting Dr. Sellars. She thought she should correct the statement that Walt was "her doctor," but she thought better of it. Besides, Norman Brandt was continuing, after having leaned down to move her shoes so that his larger feet would have more room and to glance over at her feet, then up to smile into her eyes again.

"Anyway," he went on, "I saw to it that the boy was moved into a private room. And that he is to have round-the-clock specials, as I believe you phrase it. Poor little tyke," his dark, lean face sobered, "we want everything possible done for him."

Now was her opportunity to say, "You were not driving that car. And you keep saying 'we,' which must are willing to cooperate. All he asks of Secretary Benson is that Uncle Sam sponsor the scheme.

According to Lowenfels, the United Fruit Company had one of its best markets after publication of the famous hit "Chiquita Banana," several years ago. Irving Caesar, who wrote "Tea for Two," was given a special citation by the Chinese tea interests because of the sipping he stimulated. The flour people gave a similar award to Bob Merrill, the author of "If I Knew You Were Coming, I'd Have Baked a Cake."

"Rosie The Riveter," Benson was told, helped to induce women to engage in factory work during World War II and the late George Cohan's "Over There" cheered many a weary and lone soldier as he hiked or fought in the fields of France so many years ago.

Since Congress has only hazy plans for solving the surplus problem, Benson may be willing to enlist the talents of Gene Buck, Irving Berlin, and the famous team of Rodgers and Hammerstein.

mean the girl with the copperish hair who was driving the car. But before she could say anything more, Roz came in.

Roz certainly was a honey in the black dress. It fit her as though she had been poured into it, with its low-cut square neck and short sleeves. And it matched the queenly hairdo perfectly.

Some men didn't like black, though, Cynthia thought; some men were afraid of too much glamour. That was Roz's trouble; she was apt to overdo it.

However, Norman Brandt got instantly, gallantly, to his feet and made Roz a laughing bow. "My, don't we look beautiful!" he said.

"Why, thanks, darling!" Roz looked especially pleased, as though she were not used to Cynthia and her departure, knocking them dead. "I thought since this was such an occasion I ought to dress up. I see you didn't. Maybe I should have worn something simpler."

"You are perfect, just as you are," Norman assured her. Turning toward Cynthia, his glance seemed to take in once more her wrinkled uniform, her mussed-up hair that was gold now in the lamplight, her grave, wide-spaced blue eyes, the dimple in the small, firm chin—and her stockinged feet.

You might introduce me to your friend, Roz. We've been getting very well acquainted, but we haven't been introduced formally."

He had deliberately ignored the fact that they had met before this.

"This is one of my roommates, Cyn—Cynthia Doyle," Roz did the honors graciously, yet there was a questioning lift to her carefully arched eyebrows. Something seemed to be in the air. Something you couldn't see or put your finger on. "And this is a very old, and very dear, friend of mine, Norman Brandt. He's altogether charming and entirely unpredictable—aren't you, Norman, my sweet?" She tucked a hand under his elbow, cocking her head to one side, to look at him coyly. Only, Roz was too tall to act coy, Cynthia thought despairingly, wanting her to appear at her best.

"Am I?" Norman returned. He smiled back at her, though again as his look met Cynthia's there seemed to be that secret understanding, as though he knew what she was thinking and was in complete agreement. "You must ask me back sometime soon. I want to meet your other roommate."

"Oh, Nora's very much engaged," Roz said. And, with another meaningful glance toward Cynthia, "And our darling Cynthia would like to be—wouldn't you, my sweet?—if only a certain doctor were not so engaged in forging a place for himself in the medical world that he has to hold off on romance."

"Really, Roz!" Cynthia interrupted. She knew it was foolish

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The tradition of Russian Conquest, from earliest times when the Duchy of Muscovy expanded into the territories of its neighbors, has been to move in all directions until its efforts were arrested. Thus Siberia was taken because no force existed in that vast expanse to prevent it from being taken. The expansion toward the Pacific was the achievement of Muraviev Amurski, a freebooting Cossack, who was not resisted.

The Ukraine became Russian but Poland avoided conquest for a while by resisting and Russia only gained that country in the course of four alliances, the last being with Hitler's Germany. When Turkey resisted, Russia's advance into Southern Asia was arrested.

Both Czarist and Soviet Russia preferred to roll like a snowball rather than to fight an aggressive war. In the conquest of China, Rumania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Poland and Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Universal State employed the Marxist Church as an instrument of war. In Korea, resistance was encountered and that issue is not settled. In Indochina, resistance was encountered and that issue is not settled. Should the resistance cease, these countries will become part of the Soviet Universal State through the accumulation of adherents to the Marxist Church.

When the Russians and their satellites use the term, peace, they mean what we call war, namely, the conquest of territory and peoples. The reason why they call war peace is that the accumulation of territory by the Soviet Universal State is achieved by what to them is a voluntary action, namely that adherents of the Marxist Church, having infiltrated the government, educational and labor organizations, gain sufficient power by means of United Fronts to produce a People's Republic.

The People's Republic is a device of conquest. It is the camel's nose under the tent flap which in time becomes an occupation. Not a single instance can be cited of a People's Republic failing to become a Soviet Satellite.

If the instance of Yugoslavia comes to mind, it is not to be forgotten that Yugoslavia is a schismatic Marxist State. Should France, which has an enormous and effective Communist Party, admit Communists in its Cabinet, an attempt will be made to reconstruct various United Fronts in the hope that a People's Republic (sometimes called a People's Democracy) can be organized. In Guatemala, a People's Republic is, in effect, in existence, although an impression to the contrary is being given.

The test of true adherence to the current line of the Marxist Church is emphasis on peace. Every public reference must be to peace. The objective of such peace is to achieve by voluntary action, if possible, the adherence of all countries throughout the world to the Soviet Universal State. Thus, the Communist Party of Indochina, once it comes into possession of any part of that country, adheres to the Soviet Universal State automatically. The same is true of East Germany, of North Korea. It could be true of any country.

The existence, in any country, of a Communist Party, overt or disguised by means of the use of some other name, means that United Fronts can be organized, that a People's Republic can be arranged and a country can be conquered from within, utilizing natives as a political force.

Nurse Lady

By ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

SYNOPSIS

Cynthia Doyle is a nurse at a clinic for underprivileged children in a city near Washington, D. C. While on duty, she witnesses an accident in which a small boy is struck and injured by a flashy sports car. She rushes to the victim's aid. An angry mob gathers to threaten Norman Brandt, driver of the accident car, but Dr. Sellars of the clinic arrives via ambulance to take the boy to the hospital. Cynthia proceeds homeward to the apartment shared by her and glamorous Roz Effinger and plain Nora McClary, both nurses. Roz excitedly awaits a "date." He arrives in the person of Norman Brandt, driver of the ill-fated car. In eager surprise he turns to Cynthia, but Roz manages to speed him along their way, blithely making it known that Cyn is in love with Dr. Sellars.

CHAPTER FIVE

"SO THIS is where you live?" The visitor looked around with appreciation and approval. He made himself quite comfortable in the chair Cynthia had vacated. Her white Oxfords were still half under it. He said, with a wide grin and that look of his that again made them guilty partners in crime, or in some secret, "A cozy little nest. Suits you much better than where I discovered you. I'm glad you're a friend of Roz's. Roz is an old friend of mine, which makes us practically acquainted."

"I don't see why it should," Cynthia did not want to sound snippy, but she had to put him in his place. He had spoken of Roz as though she never had been more than a friend of his, yet Cynthia knew that Roz did not feel that way about it. And she resented his saying that he had "discovered her," and taking it for granted that it was a beginning of some kind.

"You know you might give a fellow a chance," Norman Brandt said. "I'm really not so bad, even if we did meet under circumstances that placed me in a bad light. Which reminds me—I went to the hospital, and Julius is doing 'as well as can be expected,' which was all I could get out of that poker-faced doctor of yours."

"It's all the information any doctor could give," Cynthia found herself immediately supporting Dr. Sellars. She thought she should correct the statement that Walt was "her doctor," but she thought better of it. Besides, Norman Brandt was continuing, after having leaned down to move her shoes so that his larger feet would have more room and to glance over at her feet, then up to smile into her eyes again.

"Anyway," he went on, "I saw to it that the boy was moved into a private room. And that he is to have round-the-clock specials, as I believe you phrase it. Poor little tyke," his dark, lean face sobered, "we want everything possible done for him."

Now was her opportunity to say, You were not driving that car. And you keep saying "we," which must mean the girl with the coppern hair who was driving the car. But before she could say anything more, Roz came in.

Roz certainly was a honey in the black dress. It fit her as though she had been poured into it, with its low-cut square neck and short sleeves. And it matched the queenly hairdo perfectly.

Some men didn't like black, though, Cynthia thought; some men were afraid of too much glamour. That was Roz's trouble; she was apt to overdo it.

However, Norman Brandt got instantly, gallantly, to his feet and made Roz a laughing bow. "My, don't we look beautiful!" he said. "Why, thanks, darling!" Roz looked especially pleased, as though she were not used to knocking them dead. "I thought since this was such an occasion I ought to dress up. I see you didn't. Maybe I should have worn something simpler."

"You are perfect, just as you are," Norman assured her. Turning toward Cynthia, his glance seemed to take in her neat, wrinkled uniform, her mussed-up hair that was gold now in the lamplight, her grave, wide-spaced blue eyes, the dimple in the small, firm chin—and her stockings feet. "You might introduce me to your friend, Roz. We've been getting very well acquainted, but we haven't been introduced formally."

He had deliberately ignored the fact that they had met before this.

"This is one of my roommates, Cyn—Cynthia Doyle," Roz did the honors graciously, yet there was a questioning lift to her carefully arched eyebrows. Something seemed to be in the air. Something you couldn't see or put your finger on. "And this is a very old, and very dear, friend of mine, Norman Brandt. He's altogether charming and entirely unpredictable—aren't you, Norman, my sweet?" She tucked a hand under his elbow, cocking her head to one side, to look at him coyly. Only, Roz was too tall to act coy, Cynthia thought despairingly, wanting her to appear at her best.

"Am I?" Norman returned. He smiled back at her, though again as his look met Cynthia's there seemed to be that secret understanding, as though he knew what she was thinking and was in complete agreement. "You must ask me back sometime soon. I want to meet your other roommate."

"Oh, Nora's very much engaged," Roz said. And, with another meaningful glance toward Cynthia, "And our darling Cynthia would like to be—wouldn't you, my sweet?—if only a certain doctor were not so engaged in forging a place for himself in the medical world that he has to hold off on romance."

"Really, Roz?" Cynthia interrupted. She knew it was foolish to feel the color rising in her cheeks. Why should she care what Norman Brandt thought of her?

"See, she doesn't deny it! Look at her blush! But of course, Norman, darling, you'll be coming here often. And now shall we get going, darling?" She handed him a short fur cape, which had set her back several months' salary. But Roz had thought it worth the sacrifice. Fur did so much for a woman; it made her look cherished and expensive. And the only kind of man Roz was interested in was the sort who would want to have his wife always appear well-dressed.

Yet, there was something about Norman Brandt, she might have admitted, as they said goodby to Cynthia and took their departure, that appealed to her so much it wouldn't have mattered whether he was rich or poor.

All she knew about him was that he came from a well-upholstered background—his father had been in the Senate or something—and that he held an important, and somewhat mysterious post with the government.

After dating her for weeks a few years ago, he had suddenly dropped out of sight. She had not heard a word from him until yesterday. He had been everywhere. Done everything. Another reason why he could be so attractive to a girl like Roz. And according to him, he did not believe in all the sentimental nonsense about moonlight and roses, either. A man of the world. Just the kind of man Roz admired since she would like to lead the exciting kind of life he must live.

What luck that she had run into him on the street yesterday. He might not have looked her up again. He probably had had many other girls since he had dated her last. Yet he had asked where she lived and suggested they have dinner together this evening.

Well, now that Norman was back in her life, she certainly was going to do her damndest to land him. Roz decided. Nothing—no one—was going to stop her.

Funny that, thinking this, as they rode together in the taxi, Norman holding her hand lightly in his, Roz should remember that queer feeling that had been in the air back in the apartment. As though there had been something between Cynthia and Norman—some secret—or some sort of electrical current.

But of course it had only been her imagination. Nevertheless, she was glad that Cynthia was interested in that doctor. There was something about Cynthia, her naturalness maybe, that appealed to men. But Cynthia was a good friend. All Roz would have to do would be to make it plain to her that she had staked out a claim on Norman Brandt.

Girl Scout Troop Conducts Tour Of Washington, D. C.

Highlight of the year's activities for Circleville Girl Scout Troop 5 is participation in a conducted tour of Washington D. C. this weekend.

A group of fifteen Girl Scouts, their leader, Mrs. John Downs of N. Court St., and Mrs. J. I. Smith of S. Court St., left Circleville Wednesday afternoon for Chillicothe, where they boarded a bus for South Portsmouth, Ky.

The troop traveled by train from Kentucky to Washington, D. C., where they are staying at the Roger Smith Hotel. Activities of Friday and Saturday are to include a tour of Washington D. C. and the vicinity. The group is to arrive in Chillicothe at 3 p. m. Sunday.

Points of interest during the tour are to include visits to the University at Charlottesville, Va.; Arlington Cemetery; the Lee Mansion, Mt. Vernon; Monticello, famous home of Thomas Jefferson, and the capital buildings. Activities also are to include dinner at a scenic lodge on the Skyline Drive and a boatride on the Potomac.

This tour has been made possible by various activities of the girls throughout the past year. Individual girls earned funds as baby sitters and at odd jobs. The troop, in cooperation with their leader and the troop committee, participated in bake sales, a bazaar, a rummage sale, cookie sales and sales tax stamp collection.

Scouts participating in the tour include Ann Adkins, Carolyn Bell, Kay Lane, Jane Davis, Susan Stocklen, JoAnn Spice, Bonnie Meadows, Elaine Woodward, Phyllis Peters, Elaine Schell, Phyllis Smith, Patty McAbee, Beverly Brink, Gwynne Jenkins, Donna Lindsey, Mrs. Downs and Mrs. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Estep and children, Ronnie and Conda Jane, of Santa Maria, Calif., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Mabel Estep and sister, Conda Estep, of Fairview Ave.

Dinner Marks First Wedding Anniversary

The first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Tootle Jr. of Chillicothe Route 4 was celebrated with a dinner party.

Two courses of the dinner were served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Tootle, Hinman Place, near Chillicothe, and the last course was served in the nearby home of the celebrants. Both homes were decorated with Summer floral arrangements for the occasion.

The dessert course was an exact replica of the refreshments served at the Tootle's wedding reception. The top tier of the original wedding cake, complete with its bouquet of roses, had been preserved in a freezer for this occasion.

Highlight of the evening was the playing of a tape recording of the wedding, including the music and marriage ceremony. Mrs. Tootle is the former Eleanor McDill of Circleville Route 3.

Those present included Mrs. Martha Kerr and Mrs. A. J. Nelson of Renwick, Iowa; Mrs. Hazel Berry, Webster City, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McDill, Mr. and Mrs. Leo McClure, Turney, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Dick Tootle and sons, Tom and Bob, and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Peck, all of Circleville; Mrs. Elizabeth Parrett of Chillicothe and the hosts.

SPECIAL HEARING AID TRADE-IN OFFER!
LARGE ALLOWANCE ON YOUR OLD HEARING AID
WHAT'S THE STORY ON HEARING AID TRADE-IN OFFERS?

You'll probably still pay more than the cost of the $125.00 Zenith 3-transistor Royal-T

Some dealers advertise a trade-in or allowance of from $50 to $100 on your present hearing aid towards the purchase of one of their transistor models. When you go to buy one, you'll find that they usually sell for $265.00, $270.00 and up to over $285.00 each! It's easy to offer a trade-in on a hearing aid that sells at such prices but...

LOOK AT THE FACTS
Suppose you are offered a trade-in of $100.00 on a $285.00 model. Figure it out... you're still paying $185.00 for the aid. Compare that to the $125.00 Zenith Royal-T. Quite a saving when you buy a Zenith. Here's another point. $125.00 buys you a new Zenith and you still have your old instrument for a "spare" — a higher priced hearing aid with a trade-in leaves you with only one hearing aid which still may have cost you more than the Zenith Royal-T.

Get the hearing help you want and save money at the same time. Prove to yourself what thousands of other Zenith users have proved... that you can't buy a better hearing aid than a Zenith at any price!

Dinner Marks First Wedding Anniversary

The first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Tootle Jr. of Chillicothe Route 4 was celebrated with a dinner party.

Two courses of the dinner were served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Tootle, Hinman Place, near Chillicothe, and the last course was served in the nearby home of the celebrants. Both homes were decorated with Summer floral arrangements for the occasion.

The dessert course was an exact replica of the refreshments served at the Tootle's wedding reception. The top tier of the original wedding cake, complete with its bouquet of roses, had been preserved in a freezer for this occasion.

Highlight of the evening was the playing of a tape recording of the wedding, including the music and marriage ceremony. Mrs. Tootle is the former Eleanor McDill of Circleville Route 3.

Those present included Mrs. Martha Kerr and Mrs. A. J. Nelson of Renwick, Iowa; Mrs. Hazel Berry, Webster City, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McDill, Mr. and Mrs. Leo McClure, Turney Glick, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Tootle and sons, Tom and Bob, and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Peck, all of Circleville; Mrs. Elizabeth Parrett of Chillicothe and the hosts.

SPECIAL HEARING AID TRADE-IN OFFER!

LARGE ALLOWANCE ON YOUR OLD HEARING AID

WHAT'S THE STORY ON HEARING AID TRADE-IN OFFERS?

You'll probably still pay more than the cost of the $125.00 Zenith 3-transistor Royal-T

Some dealers advertise a trade-in or allowance of from $50 to $100 on your present hearing aid towards the purchase of one of their transistor models. When you go to buy one, you'll find that they usually sell for $265.00, $270.00 and up to over $285.00 each! It's easy to offer a trade-in on a hearing aid that sells at such prices but...

LOOK AT THE FACTS

Suppose you are offered a trade-in of $100.00 on a $285.00 model. Figure it out... you're still paying $185.00 for the aid. Compare that to the $125.00 Zenith Royal-T. Quite a saving when you buy a Zenith. Here's another point. $125.00 buys you a new Zenith and you still have your old instrument for a "spare" — a higher priced hearing aid with a trade-in leaves you with only one hearing aid which still may have cost you more than the Zenith Royal-T.

Get the hearing help you want and save money at the same time. Prove to yourself what thousands of other Zenith users have proved... that you can't buy a better hearing aid than a Zenith at any price!

Statue Of Liberty's Boat Captain Yet To Visit Famed Land Mark

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Capt. George Clancy has made 16,200 trips to the Statue of Liberty and never yet been inside it.

"Too busy," he says crisply. "Never get the time."

For six years he has piloted a ferry boat from the Battery to Bedloe's Island, bringing literally millions of visitors to America's greatest national shrine. The round trip is only about three miles, but in those years Clancy has journeyed almost twice the distance around the earth.

Today gave Clancy the proudest moment in his 46 years of living. He was at the helm of the "Miss Liberty," a new 460-ton excursion steamer, as she made her maiden trip through New York harbor. The three-deck vessel, which will carry 750 passengers, was added because of the growing popularity of the Statue of Liberty as a tourist mecca.

Francis J. Barry, manager of the Line, said the $400,000 "Miss Liberty" is the first excursion steamer of its type designed and built in the United States in the last 25 years.

"I can't see how they could improve on her," said Clancy, patting the wheel.

Clancy, a chipper little blue-eyed skipper (5-feet-5, weight 140), may be harbor-bound now, but he has quite a career to look back on. He was born in Fitchburg, Mass., and went to sea at 16.

"I've had 11 years of deep water experience," he recalled. "I've been around the world three times, and hit about every country on the globe. I've sailed under four flags, American, Norwegian, British and Honduran."

Clancy served with the Army Transport Service during the war. He also spent four years traveling with the Ringling circus as a sideshow magician and animal trainer.

"I had 14 bears," he remarked, and let the matter drop, as if that alone were enough to explain why he returned to the sea.

"Now I'm all settled down and married and get home at night," he said. Clancy met and wooed his wife (she's the daughter of the superintendent of the Statue of Liberty national monument) while she was commuting to and from Manhattan on his vessel.

Clancy has ferried all types of people out to the statue—"from children and senators to governors and movie stars, from Faye Emerson to United Nations officials."

"But immigrants seem to get the biggest thrill," he said. "Many saw the statue from the deck of a ship when they first came to this country years ago, and they have a desire to see what it looks like real close. Sometimes they cry. It stirs up old memories."

Captain Clancy says his nine daily trips never get monotonous, and he doesn't feel rut-bound.

"You're too busy," he said. "This is the busiest harbor in the world, and you're crossing all the big liners going in and out. You don't have time to think of anything else."

No impish Irish impulse to bypass the Statue of Liberty and hug his boatload of sightseers on down to Florida ever tempts the stout stern mind of Clancy. Or if it does, he won't admit it.

"Anyway," he said firmly, "I've already seen Florida."

The Communist Party exists in each country nominally as a national political party, concerned with the internal affairs of the country in which this party exists. For many years, these various political parties were members of the Third International, generally referred to as the Comintern. During World War II, the Comintern was nominally abolished, its place being taken by the Cominform.

During the existence of the Comintern, leaders of the various national parties expressed themselves with considerable freedom on fundamental party questions. Since the abolition of the Comintern, the various national parties have come under the complete control and domination of the Kremlin. It was the apex of Stalin's power that he finally mastered such national leaders as George Dimitroff of Bulgaria, Earl Browder of the United States, Ana Pauker of Rumania. Thorez of France was kept in Russia, as a sick man, until Duclos became master of the French party.

In a word, the various national Communist parties were subdued until they became not only instruments of an international political group of parties but branches of the Russian Communist Party. That is the situation today.

NOW High Moisture Ear and Shell Corn Can be Dried in Storage with a DELCO CROP DRYER! HAY and CORN

* CUT DOWN storage losses due to adverse weather and late-maturing corn by installing an efficient and dependable Delco Crop Dryer!

Forced air drying provided by a Delco unit, eliminates spoilage and waiting. This permits you to start your picker when kernel moisture is 30% or less.

* EFFICIENCY and Economy: Driven by the long-life, trouble-free, condenser-type Delco Products motor, here is a crop dryer that is the answer to all of your corn-moisture problems! Users report exceptionally low operating costs of approximately one cent per bushel. The Delco Crop Dryer is a four-in-one unit. It dries hay, small grain and ear corn, and can be readily moved over to the dairy barn to supply forced ventilation.

Unit built around husky, world-famous Delco motor in the hub. Requires no belts, pulleys, motor mounts. Life-time lubrication, self-regulating. Rugged, cast aluminum, 36" fan and housing weather-proofed.

Manufactured by Delco Products Div. GMC, Dayton, Ohio

No Need to Build New Cribs —

* PRACTICALLY ALL existing cribs and bins can be altered for mechanical drying with the Delco Crop Dryer. This can be accomplished at a minimum of expense. You can do it yourself with materials found on most farms today.

Engineered for rugged duty, the adaptable Delco unit is set into a frame 43 1/2" square by 12" deep. Dynamically balanced, it requires no special mountings and needs no bolting down.

Whether your cribs are round or rectangular, permanent or temporary, you can adapt them easily and economically for use with the Delco Crop Dryer. Contact us today, and let us show you how!

Partridge Nest Alters Race Track

MILWAUKEE (U)—There's an extra curve in the new sports car race track at State Fair Park—a detour around a Hungarian partridge nesting on 13 eggs.

The nest was discovered in the grass just before graders began to cut a strip down the field. W. M. Masterson, fair manager, rerouted the track 50 feet to the side, making a sweeping bend.

"We'll call the extra curve Partridge Bend," he said.

GE Takes Over Top Spot Alone In City Softball

Behind the three-hit pitching of Drake, General Electric took over undisputed possession of first place in the City Softball League. They beat Mt. Pleasant 12 to 2 Thursday night under the lights at Lewis Park.

Drake has now given up but five hits and only three runs in his last three games. But he was helped out by some heavy batting on the part of his team mates.

Mt. Pleasant started the scoring with a run in the first. GE came back with single runs in the second and third. In the fifth the winners pushed three runs across the plate and added one in the sixth on a home run by Schine.

GE exploded for six runs in the seventh to cap their scoring. Mt. Pleasant tallied once more in their half of the seventh but the GE lead was too great.

Line score:

GE	011	031	6—12	12	1
Mt. Pleasant	'100	000	1—2	3	4	4
Drake	(p)	Good	(c)
Elliot	(p)	Atwood	(c)

Whitey Lockman, first baseman of the New York Giants, has been fined $25 by National League President Warren Giles for using abusive language when he was banished by plate umpire Frank Dascoli in a game between the Giants and St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Wilson's Run Over Jackson In County Loop Fray, 16-2

With Jim Callahan at the wheel, Wilson Ford ran roughshod Thursday night over Jackson Township, pounding out a 16-to-2 victory in a County League fray that was settled in the first inning.

The one-sided clash at Ted Lewis Park demonstrated that Warren Grover's boys are still very much set on winning pennant laurels, despite their setback last week at the hands of the Asheville Irwins. It was little more than a workout for Callahan, who held the township boys to two lonely hits, and kept them scoreless until the bottom of the sixth.

The Wilsons, in turn, were piling up 13 hits, although many were of the doubtful variety due to the shaky defense work behind the pitching of Don Smith. Jackson was never able to show much strength beyond the hard-working battery. Cecil Galloway was on the receiving end of Smith's hurling.

Callahan retired 15 of the township batters on strikes and granted only two walks, one of them to Smith, the township pitcher, who also was credited with the only Jackson hits.

THE ROOF began caving in on the township club early.

Tomlinson, first up was safe on an error and soon made his way to third. Schneider was nicked by a pitched ball and moved down to second. Wellington than rapped hard to the pitcher who threw to the plate and retired Tomlinson.

But on the next play the whole inner defense of the township fell apart on Skinner's bouncer.

By the time the dust cleared away, Skinner had made his way all around the sacks on the heels of Schneider and Wellington. Then Callahan earned a scratch infield hit, and Jones reached first on an error.

Two scored when Banks slashed a fuzzy single through the infield, and the third-sacker himself tallied with the sixth run a moment later via the theft route. Lewis and Sines fanned.

After Young and Hatfield fanned and Cecil Galloway was thrown out, Grover's Growlers resumed their monkeyshines for four more markers. Tomlinson fanned. Schneider was safe on error, and moved along while Wellington was being retired at first.

On a fielder's choice, the townshippers tried to retire Skinner at first, but he was safe and continued to second and Schneider tallied on loose defensive work. Callahan singled, scoring Skinner. And Jones doubled to do the same for Callahan. The Wilsons caught him on a passed ball. Banks walked, but Lewis was tossed out.

THAT MADE it 10 to 0 and the Fords were beginning to coast. They added two more in the fourth, and piled four more on top the pile in the sixth.

Two home runs for the winners were highlights of the Wilson attack. Banks lifted one over the left-fielder's head in the fourth after Skinner had singled, to account for the two runs in that frame. And in the sixth, Tomlinson kicked the roof off the merry-go-round with a round trip that scored two runners ahead of him. The other run in the sixth was registered when Jones laid it on for a triple after Callahan beat out a rap to the shortstop for a scratch single.

It was in the bottom of the sixth that Smith got the second Jackson hit and sparked the only township scoring effort.

Longberry, who replaced Wolford in the batting order and took over the shortstop duties, was called out on strikes. Young was hit by a pitched ball. Two were down when Hatfield fanned. But Galloway coaxed a walk and both he and Longberry came home when Smith banged out his second single of the evening. The side was retired when Smith over-ran second and was tagged out in a diving play by Skinner.

Asheville Irwins, top dogs in the "kid baseball" county loop, will meet Pickaway Township Friday twilight at the park. It will be the last county league game this week. Next regularly scheduled fray for the county circuit after Friday's contest will be next Wednesday evening when the powerful Irwins finally meet head-on with Stillman Morrison's General Electric crew. And the fans are already planning to come early for that one!

STARTING BATTING orders for Thursday night's game:

Wilson—Tomlinson, cf; Schneider, lf; Wellington, ss; Skinner, 2b; Callahan, p; Jones, c; Banks, 3b; Lewis, 1b; Sines, rf. Crocker went in for Schneider and Sieverts replaced Sines.

Jackson—Young, lf; Hatfield, cf; Cecil Galloway, c; Smith p; Hutcherson, rf; Gilmore, ss; Beougher, 3b; Charles Galloway, 1b; Wolford, 2b. Swaney replaced Charles Galloway and Longberry replaced Wolford.

FOUL TIPS Nobody noticed it, and hence it went into the records perfectly legal-like, but Dick Banks hit his home run in the fourth while batting out of turn. Several cases of men hitting out of turn have given the umpires grief in recent games. Every manager, needless to say, should have a copy of his own batting order—and report new players going into the game to the official scorer.

Marvin Young pulled one of the nicest fielding plays for the losers when he hauled in a towering fly hit by Skinner to open the seventh. It was a belt that was intended for many bases if the little outfielder hadn't held tight.

Some of the Wilson sluggers tried their luck at switch-hitting in the late innings, with some surprisingly good results.

In the bottom of the third when Swaney fouled out among the right-field automobiles, Walter Sieverts hooped it over despite his ailing leg and snared the ball for a pretty catch.

Manager Grover spent a good deal of his time trying to polish up the style of some of his hitters, looking ahead, no doubt, to that return game against the rugged Asheville boys—and the tight spots that may come even sooner. The two teams won't meet again until July 22, and a lot of surprises can come out of Ted Lewis Park before that time. The Wilsons tangle with GE not long after the Fourth. And who's to get "clobbered" that evening?

Bill Schneider pulled another one of his timely bunts in the top of

Pony League's Leftover Items Are Re-Hashed

In the Tuesday game between Lions and GE, the names of Kelly and Kirkpatrick were reversed in the lineups given to the Herald. Therefore, times at bat credited to Kelly in Wednesday's story should go to Kirkpatrick.

Lee Smith, Lions' manager, says the ball which struck him Tuesday hit him in the left side, not the right. He was also hit by another thrown ball later on.

Wednesday night, both Lions and Elks complained of the difficulty in seeing under the lights. Even though this was their first night game this year: there seemed to be some trouble on fly balls.

Elks players are modest. They claim the letters BPOE (Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks) really apply to them as Best Players on Earth.

IN THE FOURTH inning of Wednesday night's game, Stewart, of the Lions, struck out. But Elks' back stop Strawser dropped the ball. He tried to tag Stewart, who started for first, and dropped the ball again. He finally threw to first for the out.

In the second inning of the same game, the Elks' shortstop Heeter bobbled a perfect double play ball with a runner on first. But he did some fast thinking by picking up the ball and throwing to second in time for a force play.

Enthusiasm and audience attendance are picking up with each game. All the teams seem to be learning from their mistakes. A number of teams hold skull practice to brush up on fundamentals.

Dr. Middlecoff Fires Hot Round

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP)—The nation's top golf pros were buzzing today about a spectacular round posted by Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the Tennessee dentist.

Middlecoff shot a 6-under par 65 yesterday to pace the opening round of the four-day, 72-hole $15,000 Insurance City Open. He posted the 6,561-yard Wethersfield Country Club course for 31-34-65, which included six birdies, and missed eight others, three of them when the ball rimmed the cup and bounced out. Had any one of those missed birdies stayed in, he would have equalled the course record of 64, registered last year by Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., who opened with 69 yesterday.

The third after Tomlinson had bounced a hit off the shortstop's shins and moved to second. The bunt moved the runner to third, but that's as far as he got.

Fans who brought their automobile cushions to the bleachers were the envy of all the others. After 10 runs in the first two innings those wooden seats can cramp a man's style—even if they are painted Paddy Green.

When interest in the County League game began to fade the fans began wondering what all the uproar was about over on the Little League diamond. From the other side of the park, the Little League game looked like a cross between a madman's delight and a midjet air raid scramble. Even from that distance, however, one truly amazing sight brought gasps of admiration—a catcher lunged all his stuff down to back up third base in the midst of one of the riots! Somebody's doing a lot of classy coaching in the younger bracket.

Rotary Wins 2 Straight Tilts; Holds Mosquito League Lead

Rotary, in the Mosquito League, pulled a game and a half into the lead by winning twice during the week. On Monday, they squeaked through to a 4 to 3 win over second place Elks. On Wednesday they came back to trounce Kiwanis 8 to 2.

Kiwanis, however, lifted themselves out of a last place tie with GE by beating them 11 to 2 on Tuesday. Don Phifer pitched two days in a row for Kiwanis. Thursday, the Elks clobbered GE to the tune of 17 to 1.

On Monday, Rotary and Elks each scored two runs in the first. Rotary added single markers in the second and third, the last being the margin of victory. Elks got their last tally in the fourth.

On Tuesday, Kiwanis jumped off to a three run lead in the first. They added five in the second aided by a home run, with no one on, by Chester. In the third they got one run, came back with four in the fourth and added their last one in the fifth. GE could get by single markers in the first and fifth.

WEDNESDAY saw Hannahs get his second victory of the week. His fellow members on the Rotary team gave him a five-run lead in the first. Both they and Kiwanis scored once each in the second.

Race Day Changed At Lancaster Oval

Lancaster Speedway has announced a change in race days. Starting June 26, racing will be held on Saturday nights instead of Sunday afternoons, according to promoter Charlie Macioci.

Wednesday night racing will continue, Macioci added. Also, a guaranteed purse of $350 for Wednesday nights and $500 for Saturday evenings. Feature winner will get $75 on Wednesday nights and $100 on Saturday evenings.

In the sportsman division, eight places will be paid in the feature instead of the previous five. Six places will be paid in the strictly stock car feature.

Two strictly stock car events have been added to each night's card, Macioci said. He said that the reason for the switch in race days was due to the extreme afternoon heat.

Little Leaguers GE Top Rotary; 10 To 9 Game

General Electric took over third place in the Little League Thursday by squeezing out a 19 to 9 win over Rotary. Behind 10 to 1 in the fourth, Rotary scored four runs in the fifth and got five in the sixth, falling one short of tying up the game.

Willis Davis, who relieved starting Rotary hurler Elsea, sparked the futile rally. With the bases jammed in the sixth, Davis smacked out a home run.

GE drew first blood with a lone tally in the bottom of the first and came back with two in the second. After Rotary scored once in the second, GE bounced back with a big seven-run fourth.

Tomlinson, first up was safe on an error and soon made his way to third. Schneider was nicked by a pitched ball and moved down to second. Wellington then rapped hard to the pitcher who threw to the plate and retired Tomlinson.

But on the next play the whole infield defense of the township fell apart on Skinner's bouncer.

By the time the dust cleared away, Skinner had made his way all around the sacks on the heels of Schneider and Wellington. Then Callihan earned a scratch infield hit, and Jones reached first on an error.

Two scored when Banks slashed a fuzzy single through the infield, and the third-sacker himself tallied with the sixth run a moment later via the theft route. Lewis and Sines fanned.

After Young and Hatfield fanned and Cecil Galloway was thrown out, Grover's Growlers resumed their monkeyshines for four more markers. Tomlinson fanned. Schneider was safe on error, and moved along while Wellington was being retired at first.

On a fielder's choice, the townshippers tried to retire Skinner at first, but he was safe and continued to second and Schneider tallied on loose defensive work. Callihan singled, scoring Skinner. And Jones doubled to do the same for Callihan. The Wilsons caught her moved along to third and came in on a passed ball. Banks walked, but Lewis was tossed out.

THAT MADE IT 10 to 0 and the Fords were beginning to coast. They added two more in the fourth, and piled four more on top the pile in the sixth.

Two home runs for the winners were highlights of the Wilson attack. Banks lifted one over the left-fielder's head in the fourth after Skinner had singled, to account for the two runs in that frame. And in the sixth, Tomlinson kicked the roof off the merry-go-round with a round trip that scored two runners ahead of him. The other run in the sixth was registered when Jones laid it on for a triple after Callihan beat out a rap to the shortstop for a scratch single.

It was in the bottom of the sixth that Smith got the second Jackson hit and sparked the only township scoring effort.

Longberry, who replaced Wolford in the batting order and took over the shortstop duties, was called out on strikes. Young was hit by a pitched ball. Two were down when Hatfield fanned. But Galloway coaxed a walk and both he and Longberry came home when Smith banged out his second single of the evening. The side was retired when Smith over-ran second and was tagged out in a diving play by Skinner.

Ashville Irwins, top dogs in the "kid baseball" county loop, will meet Pickaway Township Friday twilight at the park. It will be the last county league game this week.

Next regularly scheduled fray for the county circuit after Friday's contest will be next Wednesday evening when the powerful Irwins finally meet head-on with Stillman Morrison's General Electric crew. And the fans are already planning to come early for that one!

STARTING BATTING orders for Thursday night's game:

Wilson—Tomlinson, cf; Schneider, lf; Wellington, ss; Skinner, 2b; Callihan, p; Jones, c; Banks, 3b; Lewis, 1b; Sines, rf. Brooker went in for Schneider and Sieverts replaced Sines.

Jackson—Young, lf; Hatfield, cf; Cecil Galloway, c; Smith, p; Hutchinson, rf; Gilmore, ss; Beougher, 3b; Charles Galloway, 1b; Wolford, 2b. Swaney replaced Charles Galloway and Longberry replaced Wolford.

FOUL TIPS Nobody noticed it, and hence it went into the records perfectly legal-like, but Dick Banks hit his home run in the fourth while batting out of turn. Several cases of men hitting out of turn have given the umpires grief in recent games. Every manager, needless to say, should have a copy of his own batting order—and report new players going into the game to the official scorer.

Marvin Young pulled one of the nicest fielding plays for the losers when he hauled in a towering fly hit by Skinner to open the seventh. It was a belt that was intended for many bases if the little outfielder hadn't held tight.

Some of the Wilson sluggers tried their luck at switch-hitting in the late innings, with some surprisingly good results.

In the bottom of the third when Swaney fouled out among the right-field automobiles, Walter Sieverts hoofed it over despite his ailing leg and snared the ball for a pretty catch.

Manager Grover spent a good deal of his time trying to polish up the style of some of his hitters, looking ahead, no doubt, to that return game against the rugged Ashville boys—and the tight spots that may come even sooner. The two teams won't meet again until July 22, and a lot of surprises can come out of Ted Lewis Park before that time. The Wilsons tangle with GE not long after the Fourth. And who's to get "clobbered" that evening?

Pony League's Leftover Items Are Re-Hashed

In the Tuesday game between Lions and GE, the names of Kelly and Kirkpatrick were reversed in the lineups given to the Herald. Therefore, times at bat credited to Kelly in Wednesday's story should go to Kirkpatrick.

Lee Smith, Lions' manager, says the ball which struck him Tuesday hit him in the left side, not the right. He was also hit by another thrown ball later on.

Wednesday night, both Lions and Elks complained of the difficulty in seeing under the lights. Even though this was their first night game this year, there seemed to be some trouble on fly balls.

Elks players are modest. They claim the letters BPOE (Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks) really apply to them as Best Players on Earth.

IN THE FOURTH inning of Wednesday night's game, Stewart of the Lions, struck out. But Elks' back stop Strawser dropped the ball. He tried to tag Stewart, who started for first, and dropped the ball again. He finally threw to first for the out.

In the second inning of the same game, the Elks' shortstop Heeter bobbled a perfect double play ball with a runner on first. But he did some fast thinking by picking up the ball and throwing to second in time for a force play.

Enthusiasm and audience attendance are picking up with each game. All the teams seem to be learning from their mistakes. A number of teams hold skill practice to brush up on fundamentals.

Dr. Middlecoff Fires Hot Round

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP)—The nation's top golf pros were buzzing today about a spectacular round posted by Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the Tennessee dentist.

Middlecoff shot a 6-under par 65 yesterday to pace the opening round of the four-day, 72-hole $15,000 Insurance City Open. He posted the 6,561-yard Wetherfield Country Club course for 31-34-65, which included six birdies, and missed eight others, three of them when the ball rimmed the cup and bounced out. Had any one of those missed birdies stayed in, he would have equalled the course record of 64, registered last year by Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., who opened with 69 yesterday.

the third after Tomlinson had bounced a hit off the shortstop's shins and moved to second. The bunt moved the runner to third, but that's as far as he got.

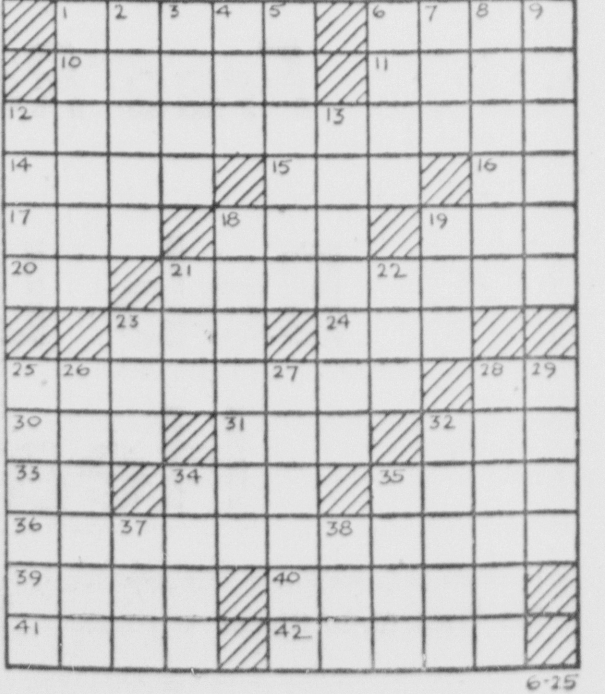

Fans who brought their automobile cushions to the bleachers were the envy of all the others. After 10 runs in the first two innings those wooden seats can cramp a man's style—even if they are painted Paddy Green.

When interest in the County League game began to fade the fans began wondering what all the uproar was about over on the Little League diamond. From the other side of the park, the Little League game looked like a cross between a madman's delight and a midjet air raid scramble. Even from that distance, however, one truly amazing sight brought gasps of admiration—a catcher lugged all his stuff down to back up third base in the midst of one of the riots! Somebody's doing a lot of class coaching in the younger bracket.

Rotary Wins 2 Straight Tilts; Holds Mosquito League Lead

Rotary, in the Mosquito League, pulled a game and a half into the lead by winning twice during the week. On Monday, they squeaked through to a 4 to 3 win over second place Elks. On Wednesday they came back to trounce Kiwanis 8 to 2.

Kiwanis, however, lifted themselves out of a last place tie with GE by beating them 14 to 2 on Tuesday. Don Phifer pitched two days in a row for Kiwanis. Thursday, the Elks clobbered GE to the tune of 17 to 1.

On Monday, Rotary and Elks each scored two runs in the first. Rotary added single markers in the second and third, the last being the margin of victory. Elks got their last tally in the fourth.

On Tuesday, Kiwanis jumped off to a three run lead in the first. They added five in the second aided by a home run, with no one on, by Chester. In the third they got one run, came back with four in the fourth and added their last one in the fifth. GE could get by single markers in the first and fifth.

WEDNESDAY saw Hannahs get his second victory of the week. His fellow members on the Rotary team gave him a five-run lead in the first. Both they and Kiwanis scored once each in the second.

Race Day Changed At Lancaster Oval

Lancaster Speedway has announced a change in race days. Starting June 26, racing will be held on Saturday nights instead of Sunday afternoons, according to promoter Charlie Macioci.

Wednesday night racing will continue, Macioci added. Also, a guaranteed purse of $350 for Wednesday nights and $500 for Saturday evenings. Feature winner will get $75 on Wednesday nights and $100 on Saturday evenings.

In the sportsman division, eight places will be paid in the feature instead of the previous five. Six places will be paid in the strictly stock car feature.

Two strictly stock car events have been added to each night's card, Macioci said. He said that the reason for the switch in race days was due to the extreme afternoon heat.

Little Leaguers GE Top Rotary; 10 To 9 Game

General Electric took over third place in the Little League Thursday by squeezing out a 19 to 9 win over Rotary. Behind 10 to 1 in the fourth, Rotary scored four runs in the fifth and got five in the sixth, falling one short of tying up the game.

Willis Davis, who relieved starting Rotary hurler Elsea, sparked the futile rally. With the bases jammed in the sixth, Davis smacked out a home run.

GE drew first blood with a lone tally in the bottom of the first and came back with two in the second. After Rotary scored once in the second, GE bounced back with a big seven-run fourth.

Line score:

Kentucky Grazing Grass Proves Fizzle On Ohio Farms

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office, located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here, headed by County Agent Larry Best, is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Ohio cows would just as soon give Kentucky 31 fescue grass back to their southern cousins.

Although recommended for use in some states, Kentucky 31 fescue proved disappointing in tests conducted by R. R. Davis and A. D. Pratt of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. Cows grazing the fescue dropped in milk production and body weight, probably due to its low palatability and digestibility.

Agronomists and dairy scientists at the Ohio station had hoped that Kentucky 31 fescue might be useful in the state as an early spring and late fall grass and thereby lower cost of milk production. They tried it out both at Wooster and also at the Hamilton County Experiment farm near the Kentucky border. But the response in each test was unfavorable.

At the Hamilton County farm in 1953, dairy cows obtained 50 percent more total digestible nutrients from grazing Kentucky bluegrass-Ladino pastures than from Kentucky 31 fescue-Ladino. Cows indicated their dislike for the fescue by reaching through fences for other kinds of grass.

Fescue, however, would undoubtedly be an improvement over broomsedge and poverty grass pastures.

As a result of these tests Davis and Pratt say Ohio farmers should stick to the types known to give good animal performance.

"Gollow-belly" is a major cause of rummer milk slumps in dairy herds, two Ohio State University specialists claim. R. R. Starbuck, extension dairyman and Earl Jones, extension agronomist, said dairymen can maintain uniform summer production when cows have enough high quality forage to eat. They said alfalfa-grass pastures produce more summer feed than permanent pastures.

To get maximum yields from alfalfa-grass pastures, Jones and Starbuck advised dividing them into small lots so cattle will graze the growth down in 3 to 7 days. This produces more feed per acre since it gives alfalfa and grass plants a chance to recover more quickly for later grazing.

Temporary electric fences are satisfactory to divide fields where permanent fences aren't arranged for rationed grazing. Alfalfa feeds heavily on potash, Jones reminded farmers. He said applying 200-300 pounds of 0-20-20, 0-10-20 or similar grade fertilizer per acre each year supplies the needed potash.

Thirsty crops will have more water to drink if your soils are well supplied with active organic matter, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing a statement by Dr. W. P. Martin, Ohio State University agronomist.

Martin explains it this way: As organic matter rots the soil becomes a better blotter. Soil Structure is built to make the soil more porous. Water percolates in more easily. Rains are soaked up and held by the soil instead of running off or ponding on top.

This soil improving process is the work of tiny, unseen microbes. As they feed on organic matter and break it down, these micro-organisms produce a gummy jelly-like substance. This sticky material acts as a glue to bind small soil particles together into "popcorn-ball" clusters or aggregates. The soil aggregates increase the size of the soil pores and allow more water to enter.

These organisms need plenty of nutrients to do their soil building job. Thus the fertilizer you add has to feed the soil organisms as well as the crop. That's particularly true where fibrous corn stalks or straw are plowed down to make organic matter. To break down these tough raw materials into humus, the organisms need extra nitrogen as well as rations of phosphate and potash. If the nutrient supply is deficient, the crops will suffer.

Martin points out that organic matter has additional advantages. As it decomposes, it releases crop-feeding nutrients into the soil. It makes phosphates more readily available to growing crops. It helps increase the efficiency of the fertilizer you use.

One of the best sources of raw materials for making organic matter, is deep-rooted legumes. When these legumes are fertilized and plowed under, they promote the building of a thick layer of top soil. Properly fertilized crops produce higher yields per acre. This, in turn, provides more raw material for making organic matter to build up your soil.

D. Merrill Davis, director of music in Jackson, Ohio, public schools, received a citation at National 4-H Club Camp for "distinct contributions to the nationwide development of 4-H Club programs."

Davis, one of 10 persons receiving citations has assisted with preparation of a national 4-H song book, directed music at National 4-H Club Congress, National 4-H Camp and many Ohio 4-H activities.

Oklahoman's Tale Topped By Texan

EUFAULA, Okla. (P)—You can't tell a Texan a tall tale.

Highway Patrolman John Osmond cautioned motorists to drive carefully over a stretch of the high way where 100 degree heat had caused the pavement to raise a ridge nearly a foot high.

A Texan asked Osmond what happened.

"A rattlesnake crawled under the pavement," he answered.

"H'mm," said the Texan wryly, "must have been a Texas rattler."

Oklahoman's Tale Topped By Texan

EUFULA, Okla. (AP)—You can't tell a Texan a tall tale.

Highway Patrolman John Osmond cautioned motorists to drive carefully over a stretch of the high way where 100 degree heat had caused the pavement to raise a ridge nearly a foot high.

A Texan asked Osmond what happened.

"A rattlesnake crawled under the pavement," he answered.

"H'mm," said the Texan wryly, "must have been a Texas rattler."
